TROOPS GUARD LISBON, OPORTO AGAINST FOES

President and Cabinet Conduct Government from Artillery Barracks

Lisbon, Portugal—(AP)—President General Carmona and members of his cabinet today conducted the Portuguese government from within the Third artillery barracks, a virtual fortress, protected by barbed wire entanglements, machine gun and artillery emplacements.

Troops guarded public buildings and occupied strategic points in Lisbon and Oporto in an obvious effort to prevent spreading to the mainland of the revolt which has overturned the Lisbon authority in Madeira and yesterday flared in the Azores, another east Atlantic island group belonging to Portugal.

News of the Azores revolt was contained in cablegrams received by the premier, one from Lieutenant Aragao Y Mello, as head of the movement at Angra do Heroismo, capital of the Azores, on Terceira island, announcing that that island had decided to sever relations with cablegram was received from San Miguel, largest of the group's nine islands.

Despite these portentous developments, an official bulletin stated that all was quiet in the colonies and islands except in Madeira. After a long secret session in its barracks quarters the cabinet announced that work on the harbor at Funchal was to be rushed, this unexpected announcement coming just when the city was waiting for some word of the expeditionary force which has been sent to Funchal to down the rebel junta in charge there.

While stationed in the barracks the president and cabinet have placed themselves virtually in the hands of the Third artillery, a model Iron brigade which has an unbroken record of distinguished service to the republic from the time of its organization. Some business is being carried on from the regular government offices but degrees and other matters must be sent to the barracks for signature.

An official statement said that 30 persons were arrested in a roundup of anti-government plotters yesterday, among them the two former cabinet ministers, Dr. Luno Simoes, and Dr. Brice Camacho. Major Aragao, who made a dramatic escape from his captors shortly after the revolt, is being sought at the home of friends.

Major Aragao, who is an inspector of the air force, vaulted the fence of the prison to which he was taken, leaped to a waiting car and sped to the airport where he commanded a plane for his escape. It was understood later that he had gone to Alentejo.

WELCOME BRITISH FORCE
Funchal, Madeira—(AP)—(Delayed)—A force from off the British cruiser London, en route to Funchal when the revolt on this island broke out last weekend, was landed here today.

The population received the officers and men enthusiastically and the civil governor of the island wrote a warm letter of friendship to the captain of the vessel, which is charged with protection of British nationals and property in the event of disturbances here.

PRIM, M'CARTY SPEAK FOR PENSION MEASURE
Police Chief George T. Prim, treasurer, and Police Chief R. H. McCarty, Kaukauna, secretary of the Wisconsin Police Chiefs association, were among the officials, who appeared before the legislative committee yesterday afternoon at a hearing on a bill proposing a pension system for police departments in the state. The bill provides for a pension of $5,000. The two chiefs spoke in favor of the measure.

APPROVE 12 LOANS AT BOARD MEETING
Twelve loans, aggregating $41,400, were approved at the monthly meeting of directors of the Appleton Building and Loan association in the offices of George Beckley, secretary, Thursday evening. Reports of directors were discussed and plans for the coming month outlined. Building activities in this city also were discussed.

FORMER PASTOR HERE, ILL, IS RECOVERING

RESIDENTS NOTIFIED TO BUILD SIDEWALKS

SCHOOL BOARD FETED AT DINNER MEETING

STOLEN CAR
Police have been asked by Appleton officials to look for a Ford coupe, 1930 model, which was stolen Sunday afternoon in that city. The car was green in color and had the license, C-12453.

SKUNK CABBAGE PROVES SPRING'S FINAL ARRIVAL

The question is—are mayflowers in the backyard or skunk cabbage in the woods the most decisive evidence of spring? Last Sunday C. D. Thompson, Second ward alderman, found some mayflowers in bloom in his yard. An attaché of the Appleton public library says that she found some honest-to-goodness mayflowers in the woods (skunk cabbage in the language of the streets) a week before in the woods along Lake Winnebago. Now the question arises, who gets the credit for finding spring?

Large Crop Menace To Farm Body

Washington—(AP)—The farm board faced a new barrier today in its drive to reduce the surplus of domestic wheat.

Piled high in front of it was an estimated production of 644,000,000 bushels of winter wheat, 40,000,000 more than last year.

This bumper crop was seen as a nullifier of the board's success in obtaining a 3 per cent reduction in total acreage planted, both winter and spring.

Should normal weather prevail and a normal yield be harvested the total 1931 production would be $85,000,000 as compared with $51,000,000 last year.

Such an indicated production possibly would create another emergency in view of expected large world carry-overs and only a slight reduction in world acreage exclusive of Russia which has said it would increase its plantings.

A relatively light winter, conducive to good growing, brought winter wheat to a high April 1 condition of 88.8 per cent of normal. The handout was only 4 per cent.

With the winter growing season considered abnormally favorable, it is possible the indicated yield may be cut through adverse weather prior to harvest time. Some economists believe that even under normal conditions the production will not equal 644,000,000 bushels.

The United States surplus available for export and carry-over on July 1 was placed yesterday by the agriculture department at 390,000,000 bushels, 15,000,000 more than last year.

The farm board is believed to hold a large part of this.

Even though an emergency should exist in the 1931 crop, the board is not expected to alter its decision not to authorize stabilization operations. It may, however, cause delay in plans for disposing of surplus stocks.

Plans have been placed at 200,000,000 bushels in actual wheat and futures.

REFUSE TO REOPEN FREIGHT RATE CASE

Appeal for Modification of Revision Rejected by Commerce Body

Washington—(AP)—Interstate Commerce commission today denied an application of western trunk line railroads and a group of states and cities for reopening and modification of the revision of class freight rates in western trunk line territory.

On May 6, 1930, the commission revised its rates upward but did not make them high enough to meet the wishes of the railroad companies. Shippers in the territory, however, thought they were too high.

The rates originally were to have gone into effect on Feb. 1, 1931, but later the commission postponed the effective date until June 15.

Meanwhile the railroads, west of Chicago and east of Denver, applied for reconsideration and higher rates. Modification and lower rates were asked by Iowa and the state board of railroad commissioners; Minnesota; the Duluth, Minn., LaCrosse, Wis., and Menominee, Wis., chambers of commerce; Beatrice, Fremont and Lincoln, Neb., and the state of Nebraska, and manufacturers of iron and steel articles in western trunk line territory.

Today's order closed the proceeding and it is expected that the rates will become effective on June 15.

CITY EMPLOYMENT COMMITTEE TO MEET

Boy Giant's Growth Ordered Checked

Fourteen-year-old Adolph Roomo, Jr., of Los Angeles, must submit to pituitary gland treatments to check his phenomenal growth which has already carried his weight to 235 pounds and his height to a shade over six feet, a court in that city has decided. The boy is shown here, left, the arrow indicating the location of the gland which controls growth. Below is his father, Dr. Adolph E. Roomo, who sought the order from the court, and above, the divorced mother, Mrs. Helen Roomo, who opposed it, as did the boy.

Give Advice With Weekly Allowances In Detroit

Detroit—(AP)—Two dollars a week for an adult and one dollar for a child.

That's the food allowance established by the Detroit public welfare department for the 46,000 dependent families under its care.

John C. Ballanger, assistant superintendent of the department, says it is not a miserly allowance, for dispensing educational matter on how and what to eat.

Originally undertaken as an economy measure, the schedule, somewhat lower than that previously used, is expected to "bring dividends in health," Mr. Ballanger declared.

"We are starting in to educate these people to use nutritious menu," he explained. "Right now it is impractical to make observance of them compulsory, but the cooperation we receive will be a valuable guide in detecting and eliminating the unworthy from the city's list."

For a man and wife and two children, who would be given 10 quarts of milk a week in addition to their $2, the department recommends the following purchases:

One half pound of coffee; three pounds of cereal; seven loaves of bread; three-quarters pound of butter; one pound of oleo; two-thirds pound of cheese; one pound cottage cheese; one pound macaroni; two pounds of sugar; one pound of navy beans; one and one half pounds of carrots; one and one half pounds of onions; three pounds of cabbage; one can of corn; four two-pound cans of tomatoes; two pounds of spinach; nine pounds of potatoes; 1 dozen bananas; three pounds of apples; one and one-half pounds of prunes; one pound of apricots; two pounds of stewing beef; one pound of liver; three-quarters of a pound of bacon; nine eggs; one-half pound of raisins; one can of fruit; one pound of rice, and necessary seasonings.

A clever cook, says the welfare official, could do wonders with this week's supply of groceries.

INDIANA STANDARD TO CUT GAS PRICES

Chicago—(AP)—Officials of the Standard Oil company of Indiana launched plans today to offer a new low-priced gasoline, selling at 9 cents per gallon, plus tax, in the Chicago area.

Simultaneously they announced that service station prices on regular and premium grades would be cut 1 cent a gallon beginning Saturday.

The new gasoline will range in price, depending on freight rates. Sales will start in the principal centers of ten states will begin about the middle of next week.

PLAY GAME OF CARDS TO BREAK VOTE TIE

Oconto—(AP)—Thanks to 53 votes, a good hand in a game of smear (pitch) and his ability to play it, James Ragen was constable of Oconto township today. He and George Don Levy contested at the polls. They tied. The card game resulted.

In the Oconto city election, William Clason and Louis Whiting received the same number of votes for Fourth ward supervisor. The winner will be decided at tonight's council meeting.

MAKE 10-CENT CHARGE ON FOREIGN PARCELS

All parcel post packages received from abroad after May 1 will be subject to a delivery charge of 10 cents to be paid by the person receiving the package, according to word received at the Appleton post office this week. This charge is necessary, according to the federal postal department, to cover customs clearance and accounting costs. The charge is to be in addition to the regular delivery fee of 5 cents.

FIVE BILLS ON HIGHWAY LAWS ARE SUGGESTED

One Proposed Measure Would Create State Motor Vehicle Division

Madison—(AP)—Five bills, which would affect state highway regulations, have been introduced in the assembly by the committee on municipalities.

One would change highway marking, another create a state motor vehicle division, while others would require the use of vari-colored lights on automobiles as signals.

Under one measure, all automobiles after Jan. 1, 1933, would have to have colored signals as follows: Cadmium orange to indicate a left turn, emerald green to indicate a right turn, orange and green together, stop; Chinese vermilion, caution signal for danger.

Similar signals would be used on road markings, showing:

Right turn or curve, green rhomboid shape, white border marker; left turn, circular marker in orange with black border; stop "X" shape, left half in cadmium orange and right half in green; danger signal, triangle with Chinese vermilion and border of white; information markings, black on orange, white on red, or white on green, according to the information. Others would have black lettering on white squares.

The measure provides that a $10 fine be levied for the first offense and $25 for others if a person fails to equip his automobile with the colored signals.

Another bill introduced would make a tall light unnecessary on a car parked on a lighted street, provided the automobile is equipped with a reflector on the rear.

A motor vehicle division would be created under another bill. A director would be named by the secretary of state, and he would devote the majority of his time to work in traffic safety.

Accidents must be reported within 24 hours to the nearest police officer when personal injury occurs, according to another bill and the police in turn would report to the director of the motor vehicle division.

A fifth bill would have a manual of safety education for use in school prepared by the state superintendent of public instruction.

GERMAK CHECKS UP ON CITY EMPLOYEES

New Chicago Mayor Seeking Further Slashes in City's Payroll

Chicago—(AP)—A check of all city hall departments was under way today by Mayor Anton J. Cermak to find employees whose services could be disposed of by Chicago's new administration.

This action followed an order issued yesterday for the dismissal of more than 2,000 city employees who held temporary appointments under William Hale Thompson, defeated candidate for mayor.

At the same time Mayor Cermak, shortly after taking the oath of office, issued an order to the city treasurer "not to honor any vouchers for temporary employees until it can be proved they worked for their money and political work does not count."

"Under present conditions," he said, "unless actual savings can be effected, it will be difficult to carry on the business of the city for the rest of the year."

Among appointments announced by the new administration was that of Dr. Hugh O. Jones, Cermak's personal physician, to be acting health commissioner. He succeeds Dr. Arnold H. Kegel.

Check Instruments To See If Girl Flier Set Record

New York—(AP)—A sealed instrument was sent to Washington today to determine if Miss Elinor Smith, 19, has the altitude record for women fliers.

Flying above Manhattan yesterday, the temperature 18 degrees below zero and "a small iceberg" around her chin, she watched the altimeter on the instrument board register 32,500 feet—slightly more than six miles. The present record is 28,418 feet, now only a month old, is held by Ruth Nichols. There's a second record of 30,453 feet for commercial planes that she also may have beaten. It's held by a man, George Haldeman.

Until Miss Nichols made her flight a month ago, Miss Smith held the altitude record for women as well as the record for endurance flying. Her mark surpassed the waited two weeks and then took off from Roosevelt field to recapture her lost honors. At 25,000 feet she lost control of the plane, fell five miles through the air, made a dangerous landing and escaped unhurt even though her ship turned over when it touched earth. It was the same plane in which she soared above the city yesterday, and she told about the experience in a radio talk last night.

"I climbed the ship slowly," she said. "It took me an hour to get to 20,000 feet. I was monkeying with the mixture control to be sure that it was right this time. In doing that I let the motor get a little too cold, which was my fault."

"When I got to 25,000 feet one altimeter stopped, the other one just kept, seemingly, in a steady climb."

SCHROEDER ELECTED COMMODORE OF CLUB

Leo Schroeder was elected commodore of the Appleton Yacht club at a meeting in the club rooms on S. Pierce-ave Thursday evening. Other officers are: Andrew Forster, vice commodore; Harry Stroebel, racing commodore; Edward Forster, fleet captain; Herbert Brock, secretary and treasurer; and Carl Wenzel, recording secretary. Trustees are Richard Wenzel, James Martin and Rudolph Forster.

Plans for a regatta on Little Lake Butte des Morts next summer also were discussed. A special meeting will be held within the next two weeks when final arrangements for the boat races will be made.

Miss Susan B. Davis of Madison will be a guest at the home of her sister, Mrs. E. V. Werner, over the week end. Miss Davis is dean of freshman women and assistant to Miss Louise Nardin, dean of women, at the University of Wisconsin.

CONSTRUCTION IN CITY SHOWS BIG INCREASE

Total for Quarter Is $258,450. Against $122,607 in Same Period Last Year

Building permits issued during the first three months of 1931 more than doubled the total of those granted during January, February and March, 1930. This year's three month total was $258,450, compared to $122,607 in 1930.

The opening of building operations on the postoffice last month materially increased this year's total, bringing the March total up to $224,470, compared to $86,845 in March, 1930. February's total exceeded that of February, 1930, by $14,450, while January's total, $9,530, fell below the $12,312 of January, 1930.

New residences, additions and alterations during the first three months of 1931 totalled $139,935, an increase over the $59,115 of 1930. The total of permits issued for new mercantile buildings, additions and alterations, offices, and miscellaneous buildings in January, February and March of 1931 was $187,520, more than a triple increase over the $59,340 of the first three months of 1930.

The same number of permits, 59, were issued by John N. Weiland, building inspector, during the first three months of this year and of 1930.

GIRL GRADUATES DECIDE TO WEAR SIMPLE DRESSES

Senior girls at Appleton high school will wear simple afternoon frocks in pastel shades for graduation exercises. Their choice of dress was made at a general meeting recently with Miss Mary Baker, dean of women, in charge.

Many of the girls wanted to wear long gloves for the occasion, but the majority decided against it, inasmuch as most of the student body and the faculty members are opposed to making the graduation exercises a fashion parade. The dresses will probably be long, nearly ankle length. Sport outfits, with a simple dress and bright jacket will be generally worn for class day and the banquet afterward.

Conservation Head Urges Support For Resident Fishing License

WOULD PROVIDE NEEDED FUNDS FOR STATE WORK

Kelleter Tells Walton League Program Is Threatened by Lack of Money

Passage of the resident fishing license measure is the solution to the serious problem of insufficient funds faced by the state conservation department, according to Paul D. Kelleter, state director of conservation, who spoke at the fourth annual banquet of Appleton Chapter No. 1, Izaak Walton League of America, Inc. The banquet was held at Castle hall last night. About 200 guests were present from the Oshkosh chapter.

Mr. Kelleter explained that Wisconsin's conservation program is threatened this year because it was necessary to cut the commission's budget from $1,370,000 to $1,025,000, a reduction of $345,000. If the fishing license measure, providing a license fee of $1, is passed the receipts would just wipe out the deficiency, Mr. Kelleter said. He urged the Walton league members here to write their legislators, asking support of the measure.

The head of the conservation bureau very briefly outlined the conservation commission's organization and sketched the duties of each department. He said that the reduced budget would make it necessary to close many of the state fisheries about July 1. He said that the present insufficient number of game wardens, 69, would have to be reduced to 49.

URGENT OBJECTION
Mr. Kelleter also urged the Walton league to object to the present system under which part of the conservation commission's budget must be spent in maintenance and improvement of state parks. He said that all the commission's receipts are secured from the sale of licenses to hunters and trappers and that it does not seem fair to discriminate against this group by making them pay for state parks used by the general public. He said that a general tax ought to be provided for park purposes.

The only money received by the commission on direct taxation is the forestry tax of one twentieth of a mill. Mr. Kelleter said that all of this money is spent in a worthy cause, he added, pointing out that even now this sum is threatened. A bill, in the legislature, provides for repeal of the mill tax and substitution of a tax on cigarettes. He said this is an unstable means of taxation which could be abolished any time. Thus the necessary funds for reforestation would be eliminated. He urged opposition to this measure.

A widened program of conservation has increased the cost of the work in the state, but the progress made by the commission is now seriously threatened by the cut in the commission's budget, Mr. Kelleter said as he urged the league here to cooperate with other sportsmen of the state in an effort to have the legislature solve the problem.

After Mr. Kelleter's talk several of the members of the league declared they are opposed to the reducing the game warden force. A resolution was passed authorizing the appointment of a committee to frame a resolution opposing this proposal.

Answers questions
Mr. Kelleter spent a short time after his talk answering questions. Dr. Max Goeres, new president of the local chapter, urged members to write their legislators on various conservation matters now before the state law making body. He pointed out that the Walton league is planning a program of cooperation with the Outagamie Fish and Game association on conservation work in the county. He said that a committee of five members from each organization probably would be named to work out jointly on the conservation program for the county. Dr. Goeres also said that the local Walton league chapter planned establishment of a Junior Izaak Walton League in the Appleton schools. He also suggested that the two sportsmen groups sponsor a series of sportsmen's get-together meetings at which trout fishermen, lake fishermen, hunters, and other classes of sportsmen could get together, meet each other, and compare notes on their sports.

Following Dr. Goeres' talk several reels of motion pictures of interest to hunters and fishermen were shown.

One of the writers he said apparently got the erroneous impression that the establishment of a college "gigo" department was contemplated. ## COMEDIAN HELPS PUT OVER ANNUAL HAREFOOT SHOW

Matinee, Evening Audiences Well Pleased With "It's a Gay Life"

Three nights out and steadily improving, "It's a Gay Life," the 33rd annual production of the Harefoot club, University of Wisconsin musical comedy club, pleased both matinee and evening audiences. Solo singing and dancing fell considerably behind other shows. Comedy and chorus dancing were excellent, the music good and the orchestra better. Costumes, as always are striking.

But the show belonged to Dave Willock. He didn't steal it—he gave it to him. He started it off and kept it going. He played innumerable roles and he packed a lot of laughs into every one. As "Gus" of the "Naughty Nineties" he panicked the audience by grinning over the top of a stereoscope a dozen other times he made them howl. When you can do that, you're a comedian.

"It's a Gay Life," needs Willock to tie it together. A departure from other shows, it is a revue with 33 of its original 38 sketches packed into an interesting two hours. Five acts were deleted because they showed up the program and in one instance because the board of censors (wherever it may be) shook its head.

Two Appleton boys, Robert Neller and Mark Catlin, Jr., helped make the show a success. Neller and Catlin, his chorus partner, continued to please with their well-timed perfect ventriloquist skill. Catlin led two ensemble numbers—"That Dear Little Burg by the Sea" (Sheboygan is the burg) and "She's the Girl for Me." Mark can't sing, but he charms the audience.

Fine Chorus Dancing
While the individual dancing did not measure up to former years, chorus dancing was splendid. One in particular, "In Black and White" nearly stopped the show. Possibly, however, there was too much tap dancing.

The costumes, designed by Lester of Chicago, were, as the girl in the seat ahead commented, "gorgeous." They were more graceful of the "showgirls" made you forget that college boys were taking all the parts.

Of the music, "Waltz Modernistic," "Love's the Only Thing for You and Me," and "It's a Gay Life," were best. All of the music was composed by David Willock, who wrote the score for last year. Incidentally, Willock's "Can't Help Lovin' You," which was the hit of last year's show, was featured between acts by Harefoot's outstanding band. That band is something to marvel at.

"It's a Gay Life," was swift-moving, funny. It's gags, for the most part, were laid. Most of them depended upon an anti-climax for their punch. But they were well done, and what really counts, they drew plenty of laughs. We repeat, Dave Willock, with Bob DeHaven as his "straight," played he and she roles deftly and naturally. He's completely at home behind the footlights and he offers an enthusiasm for a professional trouper could not duplicate. E. Jewell Tompkins, with facial muscles as flexible as the late Lon Chaney, had the audience in gleeful mood.

Show Satisfying
To seasoned Harefoot followers, the show was entirely satisfying. That it departed from a plot and went to the revue form, was interesting. College musical comedy plots are usually pretty terrible, anyway.

From one of the lead members of the cast, however, we learned that staging a revue is about twice as difficult as presenting a musical play. All the more credit to the boys for a good show. By the time they reach the climax of the tour—Madison, they'll have one of the smoothest shows in Harefoot history. Just now, it's not quite out of the rehearsal stage.

Which is the trouble with seeing Harefoot the third night out.

PAULINA NOT TOLD

Cincinnati, Ohio (AP)—Grief-stricken and sorrowing, the city which knew Nicholas Longworth as a child and delighted in his accomplishments today prepared to receive its beloved "Nick" in death.

The whole city was in mourning, except for a little girl at the famous Rockwood home of the Longworths, who was not told of the death of her father. There was no one who would tell 6-year-old Paulina, pride of the late speaker's heart, of her father's death. The task was left to "Princess Alice" Longworth when she arrives with her husband's body.

With the passing of Mr. Longworth, the city loses the last member of a family bearing that name, and whose achievements have been closely linked with the progress of the "Queen City of the West." For more than a century the Longworth family has figured most prominently in the city's history, especially so in the development of arts and civic enterprises.

WITNESS SAYS KEYSTONE QUIZ TO BE "BOMB"

Pinchot "Observer" Says
"One Man Controls
Utilities and U. S."

Harrisburg, Pa.—(P)—Sensational revelations that will constitute "the bursting of a bomb" can be expected from testimony being given before the state house of representatives committee investigating public utilities, Monsignor James R. Cox, one of Gov. Gifford Pinchot's "observers" on the committee said in a statement today.

The pastor of old St. Patrick Catholic church in Pittsburgh, asserted that testimony regarding the transportation situation was leading to one man "who not only controlled all the utilities, but the United States government." He declined to name the man.

Father Cox, who assisted labor leaders and company officials in bringing about settlement of the Pittsburgh taxi cab drivers' strike last year, was chosen by the governor as one of the three "observers" when the assembly took up its inquiry into the state's utilities problems.

"Last year in our Pittsburgh taxi cab trouble," Monsignor Cox's statement went on, "the Mitten management (transportation interests) was there represented by the Farmalee officials, and they brought on a man to take care of the situation, who said he would remain as general manager and who had been for years with the Mitten management in Philadelphia."

"We learned these companies were owned and controlled by one gentleman. Now I am not going to mention the name because we don't have the facts, but it seems to be leading up to one. They not only control the utilities, but they control the United States government, and when the bomb bursts, it will show one dominating figure in political life."

MIND BROADCASTERS OBSERVE RULES WELL

Two Wisconsin Stations Did
Not Go Out of Wave
Length

(Post-Crescent Washington Bureau) Washington—Two Wisconsin radio stations were extremely well behaved during the month of February, never going so much as 100 cycles out of their allotted wave length frequencies. They are WJBA at Madison and WTMJ at Brookfield and Milwaukee.

At present the Federal Radio Commission allows a deviation of 500 cycles, but is considering reducing its tolerance of frequency transgression which causes so much static and interference, to 50 cycles.

The radio division of the department of commerce has been conducting monthly tests at its seven monitoring stations. Three new monitoring stations on the West Coast will join the present seven in the March testing.

Wisconsin radio stations may have been just as excellently operated during February as these two, since all radio stations in the country are not tested each month. Only 267 out of the 612 in the United States were tested during February.

For the country as a whole, there seems to be a steady increase in the number of stations keeping well within their allotted wave-lengths. For February, 27 per cent of the 367 stations measured were under 100 cycles as against 15 per cent in January and 10 per cent in December.

As for those going over the 200 mark, there was 58 per cent in February as against 50 per cent, and 70 per cent in December.

The 367 stations tested were checked 5,323 times, day and night. Of the total, 59 were under 100 cycles, 55 under 200, and the remaining 213 over 200.

GUESSWORK REMOVED BY ROASTING COFFEE IN SMALL QUANTITIES

Patented Process Invented by Hills Bros. Insures Delicious, Uniform Flavor Always

When coffee is roasted in the ordinary way, which is in two or three hundred pound lots, it is a problem to get an even roast. Some of the berries may be overdone, some underdone. What is more, one batch may vary from another in color. All of these variations prevent a uniform flavor.

Hills Bros. overcame this problem by inventing and patenting a roasting method that automatically regulates the amount of coffee roasted and the degree of heat. By a slow but continuous process, only a few pounds at a time pass through the roasters. So exact is the control, that every berry is roasted evenly and gives a matchless, uniform flavor in every cup.

No other coffee can taste like Hills Bros. Coffee because no other coffee is roasted the same way. The continuous process, Controlled Roasting, that means so much in flavor and strength is Hills Bros. exclusively.

When you buy Hills Bros. Coffee it is as fresh and rich in flavor and aroma as when it comes from the roasters. Air, which destroys the flavor of coffee, is completely excluded from the vacuum cans in which Hills Bros. Coffee is packed. Coffee packed in ordinary air-tight cans does not stay fresh. Ask for Hills Bros. Coffee by name and look for the Arab—the trade-mark—on the can. Sold everywhere.

BY WILLIAM E. BEATTIE
U. S. Department of Agriculture
Written especially for the Post-Crescent

Spring greens are in great demand even though our markets are now well supplied with kale, spinach and other green vegetables all winter.

As summer comes on our desire for green foods is less pronounced. This, however, does not mean that our systems have been fortified with green foods for a whole year, but that we want a change of diet. Summer greens are just as important in our diet as spring greens.

When it comes right down to the greens that are dependable for summer use the list includes cabbage, sprouting broccoli, Swiss chard, New Zealand spinach, leeks, celery and sorrel.

Cabbage Heads List

Cabbage is perhaps our most important green summer vegetable. In fact cabbage is not fully appreciated as an all-year green vegetable.

Cabbage is comparatively easy to grow and the supply can be maintained in most sections, except the extreme south, by making several plantings. Even though solid heads do not form, green leaves are good for greens.

Too often cabbage loses its greatest value, that of its vitamin content, by being overcooked. To be at its best cabbage should not be cooked until it loses its crispness or green color.

The same is true of most greens.

Swiss Chard Like Beets

Swiss chard is a sort of a beet, only it doesn't form a beet at all. It makes a lot of tender, succulent leaf stems and leaves that are very fine for hot-weather greens.

Plant it like garden beets. Thin the plants so they stand six or eight inches apart in the row, fertilize it well and it keeps right on producing until after freezing weather sets in.

New Zealand spinach isn't spinach at all, but grows big and stands hot weather. It requires a rich soil and keeps right on growing throughout the summer. But the stems should be kept cut and no seed clusters should be allowed to form.

The tender young tips and side branches are the parts used and they are prepared, cooked and served about the same as ordinary spinach.

Try Growing Leeks

Sourgrass or sorrel is often used for greens. Not the common field sorrel, but the cultivated or special kinds that are grown in gardens.

The leaves of the sorrels are used just the same as spinach.

When it comes to a real delicacy in the way of a green vegetable, however, the leek is easily in the lead. Leeks are not hard to grow, but like a number of other special vegetables, they require special treatment.

Frequently leeks are grown by transplanting, but again they are grown in the rows where the seed is sown. The principal point is to plant leeks rather deep, that is, in a small furrow, and then fill the soil in around them so that the main stem will develop into a thick, blanched neck five to seven inches long.

The tender stems of leeks are boiled and served like young onions, but have a much more delicate and pleasing flavor.

NICHOLAS LONGWORTH

Nicholas Longworth was one of the few men to become speaker of the house of representatives who was never dubbed a czar.

Uniformly courteous, genial of manner, kindly of treatment and outlook, he was able to perform the duties and exercise the high functions of that position with a minimum of friction and attack.

Men of such qualities and so disposed are often men of iron. They concede nothing of principle in the effort to be fair with their fellows. And they get much further.

The more men of Mr. Longworth's traits that we have in public life the better for all of us. For work is then done in the calmness of reason instead of the fire of conflict and, because it is done with a fairer realization of the rights of others, it is almost invariably better done.

PARACHUTES

Will Rogers wonders why parachutes are not provided for passengers in commercial airplanes. Many people are thinking about the same thing.

Had Knute Rockne and his fellow passengers been equipped with this safety device, doubtless some of them would be alive today. That passengers should be required to don parachutes might create in their minds an inhibition against flying which would be detrimental to the aviation business. While statistics show that air travel is continually improving and that fatalities are becoming less in proportion to the number of passengers carried and miles flown, those who use this method of transportation must realize that there are hazards, and that when the occasion arises for the use of a parachute, there is nothing else which will take its place in the saving of one's life.

To jump or not to jump would be the question, as with Hamlet in his famous soliloquy, "To be, or not to be,—Ay, there's the rub." But unlike Hamlet, the air passenger could not meditate on the solution of the momentous question with chin in the palm of his hand and thoughts lingering over the passage of time. The answer to the question must be prompt and decisive. It would be, jump or find "the undiscovered country, from whose bourne no traveler returns."

Lives can be saved by equipping passengers with parachutes and in giving them careful instruction in their use. That the thought of its possible need may affect the volume of passenger traffic is unworthy of consideration compared to the element of safety involved. And perhaps its presence will overcome the timidity of many travelers.

AGAIN THE MARINES

The prompt action of the United States marines in rendering aid to the stricken city of Managua is a matter of pride to our citizens. That they had not all been withdrawn was a fortunate circumstance.

The presence of these troops in Nicaragua has been a subject for criticism by many people in this country and by most of the Central and South American republics. Now that the occasion has arisen where their efficiency and training will be of inestimable value in the face of the overwhelming calamity which has taken place, protests against their presence will become feeble.

The marines, working with the local national guard which they trained, have met a situation which could not have been handled except by troops thoroughly grounded in discipline. The service that they have performed in the past in Nicaragua is appreciated by the law-abiding citizens of that republic, and the assistance rendered in the present emergency will add greatly to their goodwill.

It is natural that Central and South American republics should ascribe ulterior motives to the marine occupation of Nicaragua. Particularly is this so when it is apparent that a potential Nicaraguan canal is of vital interest to this country. It is quite true that no canal will ever be constructed there except under the direction and control of the United States, and the marines may be forced again to take a commanding position in that country should our canal interests be jeopardized. But it is certain that not only Nicaragua but other southern countries will be thankful that the "devil dogs" were on the job during the recent catastrophe.

"THE SUNSHINE OF NEW MEXICO"

The appellate court in recently upholding the conviction of Albert B. Fall said that the charge of the trial court to the jury was "on the whole, comprehensive, fair and impartial." But while those rather mild words are in the usual calm tone of judicial opinions, in reality they approve the trial judge's handling of one of the most dramatic settings ever created in a courtroom in America.

A man about seventy years of age who had had an illustrious career that took him near the top of the ladder, who in fact had been both senator of the United States and its secretary of the interior, was on trial, charged with the most disgraceful act of which such a man can be guilty, that he was a traitor to his trust.

At the time of trial Mr. Fall was apparently a hopeless invalid. He was brought into the courtroom in a wheelchair, carefully wrapped in blankets. He was surrounded by nurses and caretakers to minister to his every want, nor was their presence superfluous.

At times his aged frame was racked with prolonged fits of coughing. He had great difficulty in getting his breath. He appeared upon the verge, any moment, of stepping out into the Great Beyond.

His attorneys were making the most of this situation, presenting it in a forceful manner and clearly for the purpose of creating a feeling of sympathy for the defendant. Indeed it would take a juror with a heart of stone not to feel sympathy.

In addition to all this there was the natural reluctance of these jurors to officially proclaim that a member of the cabinet of a president of the United States was guilty of the loathsome crime of accepting a bribe, for Fall was to be the first one ever so convicted.

At the time, too, the weather at Washington was bad, cold, raw, dangerous, and the attorney for Mr. Fall, between the sobs heard throughout the courtroom, closed with a peroration asking the jury to send the defendant back to the "warm and healing sunshine of New Mexico." Thereupon Judge Hitz who was presiding commenced his charge to the jury. He stated this way:

"Counsel have urged you to send this man back to the sunshine of New Mexico. You have nothing whatever to do with the sunshine of New Mexico. You are here to decide this case upon the evidence, and nothing else."

Fall and his attorneys felt that that charge defeated them. Perhaps it was an important factor in bringing the jury back to a realization of the seriousness of their duties.

That the court of appeals has upheld the right of a trial judge to puncture obviously misleading arguments so that with his longer and more thorough experience he may the more truly guide the jury aright instead of permitting it to be misled, is important, for such should be one of the major functions of a trial court.

The language of Judge Hitz deserves a place in the real literature of judicial tribunals and should be referred to often.

Opinions Of Others

EVEN IN VENEZUELA

Passing through our old plazas and public gardens, originally intended as boulevards where the weary and distracted could come to rest and meditate, we beheld at frequent intervals familiar signs of the times. "Keep off the grass" and "Don't pick the flowers," admonitions which are all too effective in nullifying the pleasures these centers of recreation are intended to afford. Here and there we see a forlorn individual stretched at length on an uncomfortable bench, and contemplating with a calm indifference what life and beauty is visible around him. For the most part these are the poor and unfortunate in life, but even in these places of public resort and refreshment they are denied the full enjoyment of their rights. They can, it is true, get the benefits of the breezes and the sun, excluded too often from their homes, but the ecstasy of flinging themselves prone on the verdant turf, or plucking a fragrant blossom for the adornment of their shabby jacket is interdicted. Let us hope, nevertheless, that they are able to paralyze some of their miseries in such privileges as are yet allowed them.—Caracas (Venezuela), La Nueva Diario.

The Chicago Tribune will never quit, we guess. Said they, in commenting on the passing of Mayor Thompson:

"It is unpleasant business to eject a skunk, but someone has to do it."

Which brings to mind the story about what mamma skunk said to the baby skunks when the big bear came to eat them up:

"Children, let us spray."

But all of the spraying in Chicago was done before the big bear, Mr. Cermak, came around.

THE FUTURE

A little more bravely, a little more cheerfully!
A little less gravely, a little less tearfully!
A little more willing to start in and do things,
Down with the by-gones and up with the new things.

A little more happily facing the morning,
A little less fretting, a little less scolding!
Let's turn to the battles that still are worth winning
Away from what's ended to what's just beginning.

A little less moping, a little less weeping
For what we have had but have failed in the keeping.
We've strength for the day so let's up with the sun now
And go with good heart to the work to be done now.

Personal Health Talks

Noted Physician and Author

POISONS IN THE HOUSE.

A young woman tells a story with a moral:

A week ago I went to the bathroom to take some medicine for my headache, and by mistake I took the lysol instead of the medicine I intended taking. I was so nervous from the pain in my head. You see, I had a small quantity of lysol left, so I had put that in a regular medicine bottle. That is how I happened to put the bottle to my lips, and some of the lysol got in my mouth, though I don't believe I actually swallowed any. Ever since, I cannot taste anything at all. Can you tell me some way to bring my taste back? I am getting weak because I cannot eat anything and I feel very depressed about the accident.

First, I do not know of anything but time to restore the taste. When the damage done the delicate tissues of the mouth by the phenol compound heals the taste will probably return. Lysol is a mixture of a cresol ("carbolic") or a similar chemical with liquid soap.

The first moral to be drawn from the story is this:

Never keep poisons in the home. If anything at all poisonous must be used in the home it should be kept elsewhere than in the medicine closet or with the toilet articles. I had a good lesson about that when I was a medical student. In those days we still used the cresol called phenol or more familiarly "carbolic acid" for various purposes and I had a vial of the pure phenol on the shelf alongside of some lotion I used on the face after shaving. One day in a hurry I rubbed a handful of the pure liquid phenol upon my map by mistake, and for a time I looked just as tough as I am.

There has been considerable agitation to have some standard and characteristic container adopted for universal use for poisons. Such a bottle having spikes all over its surface would instantly warn one who picked it up by mistake—if there were some way to prevent the use of a similar rough-surfaced container for harmless things. However, that would not have prevented such a mistake as the young lady tells us she made.

One of the most terrible poisons which people keep in the house for no good reason at all is strychnine. Often those who keep this poison in the house are unaware of the fact that they possess such a deadly poison—until some luckless child finds it and eats some. That is a peculiarly refined crime that shames our civilization—I mean we permit such terrible accidents to happen merely because we haven't the guts or the decency to put a stop to the incorporation of strychnine in all kinds of posturms, popular and medical, which are indiscriminately distributed without a word of warning or caution about the deadly poison.

This is a great country for brave talk about our concern for the children's welfare, but when it comes to the question of making an extra dollar in business we don't give a darn about the life of a child.

In a general way I wish to reassure readers that, to the best of my knowledge and belief, there is no advantage to be gained by the use of any poison as an alleged anti-septic.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

A Cultist Speaks Out.

I am a duly licensed osteopath, and I resent the allusion I have marked in your article. (G. Y. A.)

Answer.—In the item marked I told of the satisfactory results a correspondent had received from treatment by an osteopathic physician to whom I had referred the correspondent, and I added this little sting at the end: "out where the corn and the cunts grow luxuriantly."

Well, brother, you concede or acknowledge you are a "path"—you are bound by the tenets of some one "school" or "system" of healing. If that isn't cultism, I don't know what the cults grow luxuriantly.

Salty Taste.

I am troubled constantly with a salty taste in my mouth. I have no sores or anything to account for it.

(Mrs. S. P.)

Answer.—First, such unpleasant taste may be due to one or another medicine you are taking. If you are sure that does not explain the taste, I suggest that you undergo a regular physical examination by your physician, which will perhaps bring to light the source of the trouble.

Why Drinkers Drink.

I am 57 years old and always drank until 20 years ago, when I quit. Even today I have an intense craving for it whenever I see some one drinking whisky. I think I know why men drink even though they know it is ruinous; they have some sort of an incurable disease and they suffer all the time, they are blue, and it cheers them up a while. (H. L. E.)

Answer.—You are quite right. The same explanation holds for the habit of taking cocaine, opium or morphine. It is the reason why I urge all good parents to exact from their children at an early age a solemn pledge against any indulgence in any form of alcohol. Properly used, I think such a pledge, given a mother or father who has a child's love and honor, is more effective than any education or legislation. Incidentally I believe a similar pledge from both boys and girls should be exacted against smoking.

Trichinosis.

Please tell me more about the dangers of trichina worm infection from ham or pork. (Mrs. B. L. E.)

Answer.—Even if you happen to buy ham or pork that contains the trichina larvae, thorough cooking of the meat is a reliable protection. In all instances of human infection with trichina the victims have eaten such things as raw ham or underdone pork. (Copyright John F. Dille Co.)

The Tynmites

By Hal Cochran

THEY left the pottery man behind and Clowdy said, "If you don't mind, I'll take just one more look at him. He's quite a sight to see. What makes him look so queer?" "Oh, that," said Copsy, "is his great big hat. It spreads so wide it keeps the sunshine off of him. Quite neat!"

And then they journeyed on their way and shortly heard wee Scouty say, "I've heard of great magicians who do fine tricks in this town. Let's look over there to see. Gee, we just tip one of these men, he'll turn us down."

"The Travel Man just smiled and said, 'All right then, just walk straight ahead. I know where a magician is. His tricks are very good.' They found the man and he said, 'Gee, I'll gladly do some tricks, I guess.' The Tynmites gathered near and watched as closely as they could.

The trickster waved a stick in air and said, "This first trick will be rare." And then he shouted something queer. A pigeon then appeared. It glared made its small wings flap and promptly stood on Clowdy's hat. Then more tricks came and after while, the Tynmites all cheered.

The man then cried, "That's all today and now I must be on my way." Each Tynmited him a coin. He bowed and thanked each one. "Oh, those tricks were not hard," said he. "In fact, as easy as could be. I'm glad I met you Tynmites. We've had a lot of fun."

Just then some music filled the air and Copsy shouted, "Well, look there! I guess that is a native band. Let's listen to them play."

The Tynmites ran up to the men, expectant of a thrill again. The Travel Man exclaimed, "Well, my this is our lucky day!"

A Bystander In Washington

By HERBERT PLUMMER

Washington — It would be interesting to know what books President Hoover carried along with him when he went to sea on the Arizona for a cruise to the West Indies.

For the President rarely goes on a visit without being well supplied with reading material. When he first planned to return to Palo Alto, visiting the national parks en route, the Library of Congress was called upon for books of all sorts.

There were volumes to explain what he would see in the parks. There were studies on economics that he might look into at other times.

The President is described as one of the greatest book lovers ever to occupy the White House. And he is an ardent collector of books.

Library authorities say that he has an unusual faculty for delving in out-of-the-way places, in searching for material not readily accessible.

Judicious Collector

When he was in China, for example, he gathered a comprehensive collection of books in many languages on China and the Chinese people. These eventually were donated to Stanford university and became the nucleus of that institution's great Chinese library.

His war library at Stanford is more evidence of his love for collecting. During the war, at every opportunity, he gathered documents, pamphlets, proclamations, periodicals of broadsheets relating to the war, which in time will be foundation material for the history of that great conflict.

One authority says that Hoover is the greatest book collector among the presidents since Thomas Jefferson; that he resembles Jefferson in that on all his journeys he gathered volumes eventually valuable to the student.

Coolidge's Taste

Coolidge was something of a book lover and collector too. His favorite is said to be "Alice in Wonderland." Several years ago, when the original manuscript of "Alice in Wonderland" was bought in London at an auction by an American, Coolidge invited the purchaser to lunch at the White House with the request that he bring "Alice" along.

He asked many questions about the first publication. When it was explained to him that the first edition, not being altogether to Carroll's liking, was suppressed, Coolidge was greatly surprised.

"Suppressed," said the President. "I did not know there was anything off-color in 'Alice.'"

Other presidents' tastes along this line vary.

Woodrow Wilson used books, but is said to have had no real love for them. Taft was interested in a mild sort of way. Harding had no interest in collecting books. Roosevelt was both a great reader and collector.

Today's Anniversary

ARGENTINA DECLARES WAR. On April 10, 1917, the Argentine government issued a declaration announcing that it supported the position of the United States in reference to Germany.

The declaration was made known to the public through bulletins posted throughout Buenos Aires, and caused a great sensation. Enthusiastic crowds marched through the streets, and the university students organized a demonstration.

An influential part of the population was strongly pacifist and pro-German, but the great majority were pro-American and pro-peace. A riot occurred at Buenos Aires on April 14 in which several persons were killed before the mob was quelled. The situation became more acute when it was learned on the 18th that an Argentine sailing vessel had been sunk off the European coast by a German submarine.

The day Argentine declared war Chile issued an official statement that she would remain neutral.

Seen And Heard In New York

BY RICHARD MASSOCK

New York — Curiosity played furiously around the old Wendel mansion on Fifth avenue for a few brief days.

Its strange story was called up in legendary detail at the death of Miss Ella, the last of the fabulous family.

Passersby peered through the windows, unshuttered for the first time in years, to glimpse, if they could, the scene of a city saga. The story of how a stern bachelor brother, John Gottlieb Wendel, kept his six sisters in the drab old house—hermits hidden in a gas-lit home of the Victorian age—was on everybody's tongue.

Dinner tables buzzed with the story of frail Miss Ella Wendel, exercising her poodle, Tobey, in her million-dollar yard behind a high steel fence, which shut out all but the sound of the world-traveled avenue.

Tale Of A City

Then the curiosity died down. The women, window shopping on either side where fashionable stores display the modern finery of sophisticated, pajama-clad worldlings, passed again without a thought of the Wendel legends.

For the observing New Yorker picks up other experiences equally strange, as he rubs elbows with the millions who share his highways and byways.

Anonymity shields most of the old characters encountered thus. It is doubtful whether any, seeing a shy old lady abroad on the avenue in old-fashioned black silk dress, cape and flat-brimmed hat, knew that she was Ella Wendel.

As obscure, too, is the identity of another old lady who rides up and down the avenue on fair days in a well-kept carriage, drawn by sleek horses, the last survival of leisurely old New York.

But for one New Yorker the Wendel story will live in the nervous memory of an anti-climax.

A young woman was standing on a corner of the avenue a week after Miss Ella's funeral, waiting for traffic to part.

Suddenly her arm was clutched by a tiny old woman, who was trying to whisper something. The first woman leaned over to hear the words. There was a look of intensity in the eyes turned upon her.

"John Wendel had a wife," the old woman said. "Do you understand John Wendel was married."

The traffic light changed to green. The two women parted as suddenly as they had been drawn together. The younger, with a shiver, watched the elder stranger disappear, muttering, in the swirl of heedless humans.

Fading Custom

There was a wreath of orchids on the Wendel house.

That manifestation of death is an infrequent symbol in the life of a town that lives in apartments. Nowadays most people are born in hospitals, die in hospitals and are buried from a funeral chapel.

The casual citizen is reminded of death's inevitability only when he sees a spray of carnations on some tenement door. Among the humble dwellings of the poor the floral custom makes what appears to be the last stand.

And now the knitted coat is developed in MARVELOUS patterns and new shadings. You wouldn't know it was knitted... but there is no reason to

COMMITTEES OF COUNCIL FACE BUSY SESSIONS

Heavy Program Must Be Completed Before Next Aldermanic Meeting

An unusually heavy program of work was assigned to city committees at the last meeting of the common council. Some of the problems have already been discussed at committee meetings, but most of them are scheduled for consideration before the meeting of the council next Wednesday.

The street and bridge committee will discuss the request of Telvo Salo to operate a popcorn wagon on College-ave east of the Hassman-Ferron store, the wages of the bridge tenders appointed two weeks ago, the application of the Interstate Transit lines and the Northland Greyhound lines to operate busses through the city, and an offer made by Herman E. Nickles to rent a dumping ground to the city. The application of Charles Unmuth for a house mover's license was referred to the police and license committee, the claim of Robert Freidlers for injuries sustained in an alleged accident on a city walk to the judiciary committee and city attorney, and the communication of H. W. Tuttrup regarding the cleaning of the exterior of the city hall building to the public grounds and buildings committee.

The park board was asked to consider the resolution of Aldermen C. J. Wassensberg and R. E. McCillan regarding the purchase of Telulah park property for a city park. The sale of the Horn property was considered by the board of public works last week.

The city attorney was asked to amend the ordinance so that the license for transient merchants can be set anywhere from $20 to $100 per day, and to amend the junk ordinance so the regulations will affect the premises of any junk dealer located in any section other than the heavy manufacturing district.

NURSE TO CONFER WITH HIGH SCHOOL STUDENTS

Miss Jane Cruikshank, superintendent of Theda Clark hospital, Neenah, will consult with senior girls who are interested in nursing as a career, Wednesday afternoon, April 15, in the high school.

Several former high school girls have entered nurse's training at the hospital. Miss Cruikshank will explain the field of nursing, the work and the general curriculum of a student nurse.

This consultation is one of the first efforts of professional leaders to give vocational guidance to students as an outcome of the recent visit of J. Adams Puffer, Boston authority on vocational guidance.

A. A. L. BEATS PAST INSURANCE RECORDS

Insurance sales records of the A. A. L. Association for Lutherans were broken last month when $2,312,200 in adult and juvenile policies were sold, according to A. O. Benz, vice president. The home office of the national organization are located in Appleton. Mr. Benz explained that since January, 1930, there has been a steady increase in the company's sales records. In January of this year they totaled $1,834,450, and in February $1,993,500. Last month 1,684 adult policies were sold, and 619 juvenile. The firm has approximately $100,000,000 insurance in force throughout the country.

Who's Who On The Appleton Post-Crescent

Number 29

(This is the twenty-ninth of a series of articles about members of the staff of the Appleton Post-Crescent. The articles will seek to acquaint readers of this newspaper with those persons as individuals and also will discuss the nature of their work. Members of the staff are presented in the order of their length of service. The thirtieth article will appear tomorrow.)

Everett Davis, advertising solicitor for the Post-Crescent likes nothing better than to get in his car and drive, without destination and without plans.

He got his first urge to see the country when he was in college, and with two friends, he set out for California. He spent eight months there traveling in every town south of San Francisco as the California representative for the Genesee Pure Food Co. The following summer Mr. Davis came to Appleton to be with his brother, H. L. Davis, general manager of the Appleton Post-Crescent. He solicited circulation for the Post-Crescent for six months, working in the rural routes and small towns in the vicinity of Appleton. He assisted W. F. Winsey organizing routes and establishing agencies in the various towns. Mr. Davis returned to Hillsdale college shortly after to continue his education.

Mr. Davis was born at Hillsdale, Mich., where he attended grade and high schools and college. At Hillsdale college he majored in economics, receiving a B. A. degree. He worked on the college annual as a member of the advertising and business staffs, and in his junior year was elected to Epsilon Delta Alpha, local honor society.

While still in high school he sold automobiles as a junior salesman for his first job. In 1928 he returned to the Post-Crescent as advertising solicitor.

His work includes the selling of new advertising contracts and the writing of the advertisements for merchants. He not only prepares the advertisements in copy and layout form, but acts as an advisor in advertising problems.

Mr. Davis lives with Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Davis, 1236 E. Opechee-st. During his three years in Wisconsin he has grown to like the state and enthusiastically believes it better than his home state.

EXPERT WILL TELL ABOUT CARE OF LAWN

Pamphlets on "Outdoor Flowers for the home" to Be Distributed

Pamphlets on "Outdoor Flowers for the Home" will be distributed at the third of a series of lectures on landscape gardening at Appleton Vocational school at 8 o'clock next Monday evening. The pamphlets, of 28 pages, outline minute directions for planting and care of flowers, and suggest a number of annuals and perennials that the amateur grower can successfully cultivate.

The lecturer, Dr. Franz Aust of the University of Wisconsin horticulture department, will discuss problems dealing with beautifying the home grounds. He will illustrate his lecture with stereopticon slides, showing the proper methods of planting lawns, shrubbery and trees.

The class in landscape gardening is now composed of 136 persons from Appleton, Green Bay, Kaukauna, Hortonville, Neenah and Menasha. It is being conducted under auspices of the vocational school, university extension division and Appleton Post-Crescent.

There still is room in the class for those wishing to enroll. In the remaining four lectures, Dr. Aust will deal entirely with the practical side of landscape gardening, giving those who enroll Monday evening plenty of opportunity to acquire knowledge on the subject.

In the third lecture, Dr. Aust will finish his discussion on planting and maintenance of trees, shrubs and lawns. He also will discuss various plans of laying out gardens, and planting various species of flowers and shrubs in their proper places.

EARN NICKEL ON ROUND WORLD TOUR

Memphis, Tenn. — Around the world in five months and he earned a nickel, spending $500.

That's the experience of Lawson Falls, Jr., 21, who started out from New York last February on his globe-circling trip and finished at New Orleans in July.

His father staked him to the $500, and the youth started from

New York, working his passage on the S. S. Steamer. He worked hard, too, during his trip through the South Seas, Philippine Islands, India, Egypt, and other countries.

His salary during his stay on the boat was one cent a month. On his trip he exhausted the $500 which his father had given him.

It Is Said--

That among the early signs of spring, which have already been noted in Appleton, are:

Roadsters, with the tops down and the rumble seats occupied.

The open doors at the fire station, with the firemen taking their regular "constitutional" about the building.

The increasing talk of fishing and the impatience of sportsmen for the opening of the season on May 1.

Heavy arrivals of baby chicks at the Appleton post office.

Twittering of summer birds in the early morning and the appearance of members of Polar Bear clubs, taking their chilly baths in rivers and lakes.

Etc., Etc., Etc.

That something drastic has happened to Old Man Winter when two bumblebees lazily buzz among the plants in a floral shop window, women everywhere are seen without coats, men begin to roll tennis courts into condition, and when friends start carrying books of poetry under their arm. There must be something in the air!

AIR-RAIL HOOKUP
London—A hookup between Imperial Airways and four British railway groups, something similar to the air-rail hookup of the United States, is scheduled to operate shortly in Great Britain. At present the plan is to include only transportation of packages and freight, but it is expected that passengers will be included in the hookup shortly.

THERE IS JUSTICE
El Paso, Tex.—Sometimes when city officials are honest, it doesn't matter whether one has a pull or not. This was illustrated here recently when William Thomason, son of Mayor Thomason, was pinched for speeding. He was "put through the works" like any speedster, and was fined $5.

Feed Child Variety Of Vegetables

BY ANGELO PATRI

One of the laws of habit formation is: Never skip an occasion for practicing the habit you wish to form. That law must not be over-looked when we are trying to establish a good habit in a child's mind. But everything we call upon a child to do is not with the habit forming idea exactly.

Consider the matter of food. The habit of eating with strict regularity must be established without a break. That is a habit we wish the child to acquire well down in his backbone. But that does not mean he is to eat the same thing at the same hour every day. Far from it. Imagine your feelings if that were imposed upon you and you were obliged to eat corn-meal mush every day at eleven o'clock, like it or not, because someone who loved you thought it would do you good.

Many an unfortunate child has just such an experience. The doctor says, "Give him orange juice." Maybe he says, "Give him tomato juice," or perhaps it is spinach. Well and good. You need not rub it in. Be content to serve the prescribed dish often enough to effect your purpose, and seldom enough to allow the child to get a good perspective on it. Many a child has turned from this much needed stimulant because it was too much with him.

Do a little judicious skipping now and then. There is no reason why a healthy child should not have a variety of vegetables, a variety of fruit. Here in America there is the best assortment of green foods and delicious fruit that is to be found in the world. There is no excuse for sickening the children with an unvaried, monotonous menu. And when the vegetable or the fruit comes round in its turn, vary it in form and service exactly as you would wish it varied and changed for you. There are a few children who cannot tolerate certain foods. Their dislike is so marked and the results of forcing them so startling, that the physician is called in for advice. Those children do not concern us here. They must have a special diet and treatment under expert supervision. The runabout children whose appetites are keen, or ought to be, are the ones we want to feed on schedule, with a varied and interesting menu. When they rebel against their food it is with a reason, one easy to find — surfeit.

Keep the food simple. Serve it attractively. Change the menu from

DON'T FORGET SPIRITUAL LIFE, PASTOR ADVISES

"Appleton may build monuments, schools, and wonderful buildings, but all this avails nothing unless the people realize that there are far greater benefits accruing in the spiritual side of life," the Rev. Anton Cedarholm, California evangelist, stated at the First Baptist church Thursday evening. Mr. Cedarholm talked on "The Psychology of Prayer at the second of his series of talks on Christian Life.

"There is no law so fixed in nature as the law of God that people get what they ask for," declared the speaker. The refusal to take no for answer is the secret of the power of the businessmen. They ask, seek and knock until they receive, find and have the doors opened to them. This is also the psychology of prayer."

Tonight the evangelist will speak on the subject, How to Pray So as to Get Everything You Ask of God. A junior choir will assist in the service.

The Story of Sue

MARGERY MALE
© 1929 BY NEA SERVICE, INC.

A voice gruff, brusque, oddly familiar, was speaking beyond the door of the room where Corinne waited.

"I'll swear she said it. I heard it with my own ears. And so did Mac here. The night we went to the Merryman house to search for the missing money bag, Sybil Lester sent Mrs. Merryman some roses. Out of sympathy. Nice thing for the girl to do. But did that kid who married the Becker money appreciate it? She did not! She said she'd like to kill the Lester dame. We both heard her. How's that for testimony?"

Corinne jumped up angrily as she heard the words. She didn't know what she was going to say but she knew that she had to confront the man who was accusing her.

"Maybe I did say that," she flung at him. "But I didn't try to do it. I hadn't any intention of doing it. Why don't you go find out the other side of the case instead of trying to fasten everything on us?"

Jack's voice sounded just behind her. "Steady there, Corinne. Who's accusing you of what?"

"Just another postscript to the murder... or almost murder... in a taxicab. I made a boast on the night that the two detectives searched our house for the money bag that Sybil had planted when she masqueraded as a gas man."

Another hour dragged on. They wouldn't release Corinne. Sue came down. The papers had published an extra. The newsboys were calling the headlines. It was raining. Dark rain that flooded the streets and streamed against the windows.

Sue and Jack were at peace with each other. Corinne saw. And she became lonelier than ever. Lonely for Harry by now, she reasoned, must know of her new trouble.

But Harry didn't come. As the minutes passed Corinne's heart grew steadily heavier. Every time the heavy outer doors opened, bringing a gust of rain-swept wind, she leaned forward eagerly. And every time she straightened back in her chair a second later, just a little more desolate than she had been before.

She told herself that she hated Harry, that she didn't want him to come. And she knew that she would have given everything if he had walked in.

Word came from the hospital that Sybil had regained consciousness. The district attorney, reporters, attorneys... they were all on hand to question her.

Corinne wondered what she would say.

While she was wondering an officer stopped up to her.

"Mrs. Becker, do you remember the number of the taxicab which you were hired to drive?"

It seemed to Corinne that the figures were etched in glaring black letters for everyone to see.

"Yes," she repeated them.

"Did you know that this cab in which Sybil Lester and Redding went driving was the one that was stolen from your sister?"

"It was?" Some intuitive streak warned her not to admit the knowledge.

"Were you keeping that cab for any purpose? Will you swear you didn't go to the scene of the shooting in the cab?"

"Of course! Don't be stupid. I drove my own car. You saw it. You can check up on the license plates easily enough and see that it was mine. What made you ask?"

"Well," he hesitated. "Sybil Lester says..."

NEXT: Corinne is worried.

WE WOMEN

By Virginia Vane

Dear Miss Vane: I am a young girl in love with a married man. I don't want to see anyone else in the world but him, but he is not able to marry me because of certain business affairs. I want to know whether it is right for me to go on waiting for him. What shall I do? If I am to break off with him, how shall I do it? Please give me a full account of your feelings in this matter. The man is a good deal older than I am.

PEG.

If the man is a great deal older than you are, he ought to be using his mind to decide what would be done in your case. There is no reason why he should allow things to drift along and place all the burden and responsibility of decision on your shoulders.

Of course you're doing yourself the worst possible injustice in clinging to this man. You're missing golden opportunities for a different sort of love from that which offers you. You're wasting your youth and happiness on this absolutely hopeless prospect.

He can do nothing for you. He professes to be in love with you but even while in love he is practical enough to figure out that your affair would interfere with business and must therefore be kept secret. As he gets more and more used to you and the knowledge of your love for him, it will seem less important to him to figure out a way of making your attachment permanent. He will simply come to accept the whole situation as a normal one, and the fact that he has practically ruined your life will not seem particularly significant.

If you want to cure yourself of your infatuation, go to your hero right now, and tell him that he is old enough to decide for himself what must be done—that you cannot wait all your life for his decision—and that you are tired of this shameful clandestine, illicit love. See what he says to that, and remember that if he fails you, you cannot in the future expect a different answer from him. Take your medicine, admit that you've been grossly wrong, and end this entirely hopeless affair at once.

Dear Miss Vane: A couple of years ago I was very much in love with a man. Then he and I broke up and I went about with others. Now he has come back more in love with me than ever and he begs me to marry him. I do not love him as I used to, but I am

BY ANNEBELLE WORTHINGTON

No wonder Dame Fashion has taken so kindly to this new cape collar. This neat, moulded-to-the-neck collar keeps in place better, and is generally becoming. It offers splendid theme for the use of a contrasting colour or fabric.

Today's model is an emerald green plaid flat crepe silk with white crepe.

The new plaited skirt effect is decidedly smart. The pointed seaming narrows the hips.

Style No. 3055 may be had in sizes 14, 16, 18, 20 years, 22 and 24 inches bust.

In plaided gingham, pique will be nice for the collar.

Shantung, linen, pastel jersey, pastel cotton mesh and flat crepe silk are lovely materials for its development.

Size 16 requires 3½ yards 35-inch or 2½ yards 38-inch.

Our large Fashion Book shows the latest Paris has to offer in clothes for the matron, the stout, the miss and the children.

Also a series of dressmaking articles. It is a book that will save you money.

Be sure to fill in the size of the pattern. Send stamps or coin (coin preferred).

Price of book 10 cents.

doing everything in my power to regulate my affection for him. He says that unless I marry him all the sunlight and happiness will be taken out of his life. I want to marry him but do you think I can get back my lost feeling for him. I am going with him steadily now.

A. J. K.

Don't try too hard to revive an old love. And don't let your anxious pity for this boy force you into a marriage which isn't meant for you at all.

Because he loves you so much and is so obviously sincere in his desire to make you happy, you almost feel that you OUGHT to love him. Perhaps he is the first man who has ever cared for you so deeply and the very force of his emotion is overwhelming so that you can almost persuade yourself you return his love.

The trouble is that if you see him steadily, and spend most of your waking hours trying to convince yourself that you're in love, one of these days you'll decide that you have at last the grand passion. You'll get so tired of arguing with yourself that you'll finally give in. You'll say: "Oh well I suppose I must be in love with him. I've known him a long time, and we get along well together and anyhow it will break his heart if I don't marry him."

That isn't very often the basis for the best sort of marriage. You'll always believe that you saved the boy from permanent unhappiness and the minutes he stops appreciating just what you've done for him, you'll find that half the glamor and excitement has gone out of your marriage.

So make a point of seeing plenty of other boys and give R. his chance along with the rest of them. If you love him the knowledge will come to you without much persuasion.

NOVELTIES AID IN KEEPING HANDS LOVELY

BY ALICIA HART

You can write chic under your fingernails these days with a brand new manicure pencil which is white, not black, and leaves that meticulous-looking white rim under the tip of your fingernails.

This is just one of the novelties that are on the market to aid and abet the good looking hand that wants all it can get.

This same pencil can be used dry as an orange stick or moistened to leave the desired white line.

There are new versions of the orange stick with a fine brush on one end, to push back the cuticle. One of these should be on every dressing table!

Brand new is a cuticle cream that comes in a collapsible tube. The tube has a cross restraint in the way it emits its cream, letting out only the finest thread of the cream at a time, so you won't smear it all over the place. As a matter of fact, it is just about the right amount to run it around the edge of the nail, without touching it. You are supposed to leave this cream on for a few minutes, then work it in with an orange stick with a cotton tip on the end of it. After this, you dip your finger in to tepid water and the rough bits of cuticle will be found missing when you pull your hands out.

There is a new liquid nail polish that you put on with a buffer, seemingly an old-fashioned performance to the woman who is used to painting on enamel. But there are multitudinous well-groomed women who insist on using buffers nail polish rather than the enamel.

If you find yourself rather in a rut about this beauty business, why not look up some of these new things? Just a trip through your home department store or to your favorite beauty parlor may prove stimulating. For there is nothing like new gadgets to stir a woman's spirit! Even just window wishing has been known to do wonders for some of us!

MY NEIGHBOR Says —

Cream cheese sandwiches, cut in fancy shapes and served with hot or cold beverages, make nice afternoon refreshments.

A handful of salt in the water when washing spinach will cause sand to sink to the bottom.

White rings and spots made by hot dishes on tables can be removed by wetting with camphor and polishing with a good furniture polish on a soft cloth. Rub until dry.

To keep cookies nice and fresh, put half an apple in the cookie jar. You will find that it not only keeps the cookies soft, but it adds to the flavor.

In regard to water spots on silks, take between your hands and gently rub together, or take inside of bottom hem and rub on spots.

Graham and whole wheat flour breads fold more easily than those breads made from white flour, so the bread box should be frequently inspected and aired.

To clean a coffee pot that has become discolored, put about two teaspoons of oxalic acid crystals in the coffee pot, then fill up with cold water. Allow it to remain on the back of the stove for two or three hours. Then wash thoroughly with hot water and soap.

A LONELY LIFE

London—Mrs. Emily Sproth leads a lonely life. She is a missionary in the Solomon Islands and has just arrived in London for a vacation. She works on the island called Ysabel, and she is the only white woman on it. The natives use dogs' and sharks' teeth for money and use them to buy wives. The 4,000 inhabitants on the island speak 20 languages.

ONE BANDIT ROBS ANOTHER OIL STATION

Holds Up Attendant, Gets $23 in Robbery at Shell Oil Building

Menasha—Continuing a series of hold-ups that has baffled twin city authorities for several weeks, a lone bandit obtained $23 in a robbery of the Shell oil station, DePere-st. Menasha, about 9:15 Thursday evening.

Apparently working with neither assistants nor an automobile, the bandit entered the station by the front door, forced Elmer Smith, Menasha, the attendant, to surrender the money, and disappeared. He was armed with a small automatic pistol, and before leaving, ordered Smith into an adjoining room, and instructed him to remain there for five minutes.

His description tallies with that given by victims of similar robberies during the past few weeks. Although Smith believed that the man wore ordinary trousers instead of overalls, he said the robber was little more than 20 years old, unmarked, and wore an overall jacket and a grey cap.

Farmers in practically every county in Mississippi are eligible to receive federal aid for drought relief.

OIL MULES, START SMUDGE FIRES TO CHECK GNAT ATTACK

Chickadee, Miss.—(AP)—Farmers built smudge fires and oiled their mules along the Mississippi delta today in an effort to save them from scourge of buffalo gnats that have so far slain approximately 1,000 of the animals in this state, Louisiana and Arkansas.

Other livestock in the river lowlands of the states likewise have fallen prey to the plague of pests that swarmed over the area last Tuesday in unprecedented numbers, but the mules have been the hardest hit.

The oil treatment was instituted at the barn of Yazoo Mississippi Delta levee board and the 35 mules to which it was first applied have remained unharmed by the gnats. The burning smudges prevent the gnats from settling. Livestock men also are taking precautions to prevent an outbreak of anthrax.

Veterinarians say the dead animals in this county, Coahoma, will reach 400 or more. H. J. Hayes, veterinarian at Helena, Ark., reported that the loss of the western side of the river may reach 500 head. A hundred and fifty mules died in 24 hours in five of six communities near here.

CHURCH "HOME" FIGHT DRAWING NEAR CLIMAX

Antioch, Ill.—(AP)—Developments in a fight to determine if Clarence Spierling and his family can continue to make their home in the Hickory Corners Methodist church, appeared to be rapidly approaching a climax today.

Plans were announced whereby the trustees, worshipers and a pastor, will try on next Sunday to enter the church, into which Mr. and Mrs. Spierling and the family dog moved more than a month ago after their own home, across the street, had been burned down.

The Spierlings claim the right to occupancy on the ground that the church trustees violated provisions of ownership which held that unless regular services were held the church site shall revert to the estate from which it was willed. The matter was referred to a court, Spierling was awarded a writ of habeas corpus, and a justice court and freed yesterday on bond on a charge of disorderly conduct, Frank Edwards, one of the trustees accusing her of using a shotgun to chase him out of the church.

NEENAH STUDENTS AT U. W. LIKE ATHLETICS

Robert Bell and Phillip Hahl are on the freshman basketball squad, and Harold Jones was one of the eight athletes picked to represent the university at the recent Minneapolis track meet. Aaron Ihde is in his second year as a member of the varsity swimming team. Charles Tressendorf is out with the rowing crew. The latter two were unable to spend their vacation at home owing to spring practice.

$1,700,000 FUND IS SOUGHT FOR SCHOOLS

Madison—(AP)—Assemblyman E. G. Smith, member of the interim committee on education, yesterday introduced a bill for the committee appropriating $1,700,000 from the general fund to be expended for high schools upon certification of the state superintendent of public instruction.

On July 1, 1931, $75,000 will be appropriated to union free high schools, and the balance to cities and districts maintaining one or more four-year high schools.

The establishment of a retirement system for employees of the state is provided in a bill introduced yesterday by Assemblyman E. M. Rowlands, Cambria. The fund provided under this bill would be administered as a separate state fund by the annuity and investment board. The system would be compulsory for all state employees except elective appointive officers, teachers covered by the teachers' retirement fund, professor provided for by the Carnegie foundation, part-time and temporary employees.

SHELL-SHOCKED VET LOSES HIS ONLY SON

Milwaukee—(AP)—Muta, powerless to voice his grief or even to move his facial muscles, Alexander Musial, 34, shell-shocked veteran, was on his way to Kenosha today to look for the last time upon his son. The child, Allen, 3, is dead.

The child was taken to the Soldiers' home hospital yesterday. Only the stricken look in his eyes told doctors he understood. Musial's strange malady has frozen his features into immobility. Otherwise he appears in perfect health.

Allen became ill last Sunday. He called repeatedly for his father, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Templeton, with whom he lived in Kenosha, called the surface of his face, called to notify the veteran, fearing the shock would be too great.

The boy, abandoned by his mother who obtained a divorce when Musial entered the hospital in 1925, was his father's life and hope. For himself, he felt there was no future. But the boy gave evidence of a talent for music. All of Musial's money went toward a musical education for Allen. He even gave up his single pleasure, smoking.

ASKS BLINDS WITHIN 50 FEET FROM SHORE

Madison—(AP)—Nimrods who shoot ducks and other aquatic fowl will be forced to construct blinds within 50 feet of shore if a bill introduced in the senate by the committee on state and local government becomes a law.

The same committee has introduced a bill prohibiting the use of pointers, setters, spaniels or other bird dogs in field frequented by upland game birds during the closed season unless a permit has been granted by the conservation commission.

The duck blind bill reads: "It shall be lawful for any person or persons to build any blind and shoot ducks or other aquatic fowl therefrom, not more than 50 feet in open water, outside or beyond a natural growth of vegetation that may be extending over the water's surface, or on a high island, or on the shores of any lake, flowage, or stream where such open water exists."

ESPERANTO HELPED ZIMMERMAN IN SPAIN

Madison—(AP)—The knowledge of Esperanto, language advocated for universal use, was successfully used by former Gov. Fred R. Zimmerman to obtain a hotel room while in Spain last year.

The former governor's experience was cited by Dr. L. H. Clark, Milwaukee, in making a plea before a senate committee yesterday in behalf of a bill which seeks to include Esperanto as a language course at the University of Wisconsin.

"The queen of Spain was coming to the town while Mr. Zimmerman was there as a United States delegate to the international exposition at Seville," Dr. Clark said. "The hotel was sold out. But a devotee of Esperanto, a little green button on Mr. Zimmerman's coat which designated him as a student of the language, The former governor got a room."

HOLDUP AT STURGEON BAY

AID BUREAU HAS BALANCE OF $10,204

$17,300 Spent to Assist 162 Families Since Service Started

The Home Aid Service bureau on April 1 had a balance of $10,204.77 left from a total of $27,529.42 pledged and subscribed, according to a report from L. J. Marshall, treasurer. The report shows that 162 families have been given aid since the bureau started functioning. The bureau also gave $5,000 to the Salvation Army for relief work.

Fifteen families have been aided directly by the bureau. Through the Appleton Apostolate, 88 more families are being cared for. Other agencies through families are receiving aid from the bureau. The number receiving aid from each follows: Jewish Ladies Aid society, 13 families; City Relief society, 34 families; German Ladies Aid society, seven families.

FLASHES OF LIFE

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Brussels—Some 140 tons of money, once nominally worth $1,300,000, have been pounded into 150 tons of paper pulp worth $150. Authorities decided that it was impracticable to burn or dump into the sea, without less German marks circulated in Belgium, so they were held in six bank vaults till Germany redeemed them.

Nanaimo, B. C.—Chief Justice Aulay Morrison of British Columbia has a definite idea what he would like to be should he return to earth in another form after death. He would prefer to be deer. "Then," he explained to a jury, "I should be perfectly safe in the hands of the hunters of British Columbia." He was addressing a jury which acquitted one hunter who killed another by mistake.

Hollywood, Calif.—Ann Harding of the movies and her husband, Harry Bannister, have had a cabin airplane built to order. They will fly it from Detroit, where it has been exhibited at a show. Bannister is a pilot. Miss Harding is nearly one.

Tucson, Ariz.—John D. Rockefeller, Jr., has had a fine six weeks' rest on a vacation hereabouts because most everybody thought he was somebody else. Once he crossed into Mexico. An immigration inspector took a look at a card reading "John D. Rockefeller, Jr., and said: "Oh, yeah! Somebody tries that every day."

Engineers Chat With Ease Over 3,500 Mile Hookup

New York—(AP)—Tests, days and hours of them, with engineers in New York discussing short wave transmission problems over a 3,500-mile radio link with other engineers in Vatican City—as nonchalantly as in ordinary telephone conversation.

That is the behind-the-scenes picture which preceded the transmission of the first radio talks ever made to the world by Pope Pius XI. Not always was the conversation in the dignified language of the radio engineer. Other subjects naturally would come up at times, such as sandwiches, or coffee.

Two-Circuit Hookup.
The tests were preliminary to the formal opening of the new Vatican City station HVJ, donated and installed by Marquis Guglielmo Marconi, radio pioneer. They were run with the cooperation of the National Broadcasting company laboratory over a two-circuit radio hookup.

To the engineer this laboratory is a haven of delight. There are amplifiers, and radio paraphernalia everywhere.

Over in one corner is a table. On it are a telegraph key for wire line checking purposes, a radio recording instrument or two and a desk microphone. Seated at this microphone is C. W. Horn, general engineer of NBC, putting away at a pipe as he speaks or listens to Gaston Mathieu, engineer at HVJ, who advised that he was a native of France.

Receiver Tuned To HVJ
At the other side of the room is a loudspeaker mounted in the top of an amplifier panel from which the voice of Mathieu issued. It is connected by special line to the receiving RCA experimental station at Riverhead, L. I., tuned to HVJ.

The microphone leads via another wire to WNAF, short wave transmitter at Schnectady. Thus the two engineers talk to each other without a bit of trouble.

Naturally the success of the tests was the prime theme, but not always. Once in a while, as an eaves-dropper at one of these tests can testify, the talk would diverge considerably.

Wise cracks On The Side
Between puffs, Horn, who is a bachelor, remarked that the radio volume control might be handy equipment for married men. Mathieu agreed, but thought more effective equipment might be needed.

"Say, aren't you using a telephone transmitter instead of a microphone?" Horn inquired at one point.

"Hold the wire," came back the voice of Mathieu.

A few minutes all was silent, except for room noises from the other side.

Again Mathieu's voice, but stronger and clearer. He had cut in a broadcast microphone.

Back of the voice from HVJ could be heard hammering. Mathieu explained that workmen were still at their construction labors in the transmitter building.

Home To Montreal
After a while NBC stood by, and HVJ could be heard calling Montreal, to which Mathieu talked for a while. Then he switched to Australia, on the other side of the world.

The exchange was excellent. Mathieu reported England could not hear HVJ, although only a few hundred miles away. He asked Australia to relay a message for him. It did so, over nearly 12,000 miles, for England was getting Australia when it could not pick up HVJ—a peculiarly short wave transmitter.

"How's your wife and family," Mathieu asked the Australian operator as he signed off.

Then, "Hello. Hello. New York This is HVJ, the Vatican City station calling NBC, New York," and the two way conversation was switched back to New York for another half-hour test.

GRASSHOPPER EGGS ARE DEEP MYSTERY

Iowa City, Ia.—(AP)—Grasshopper eggs hold a mystery of growth to which Eleanor H. Silpher of the University of Iowa has a new clue. Ordinarily the young grasshoppers grow rapidly in the eggs for three weeks, until they are about half an inch long, then stop. Weeks later they suddenly resume development and soon hatch.

Miss Silpher has developed a strain of hoppers which hatch quickly, eliminating the long pause, she reports to the American Association for the Advancement of Science. She plans to compare the two breeds in search of the unknown mechanism that enables the ordinary hoppers to hibernate.

EVERYTHING COMES—Trenton, N. J.—If you wait long enough, and providing you don't die, everything will come to you. Mrs. Lillian Van Lappen has decided to believe that. She has just received a divorce decree which she filed 22 years ago. At the time she accused her husband, Gerard, of desertion.

MAJER NAMED AS NOMINEE FOR DELEGATE BERTH

Appleton Man Has Chance for Election to Represent State at U. S. Meet

R. J. Schaefer, a breeder of pure-bred Holstein-Friesian cattle at Appleton is one of 123 in Wisconsin, and of 784 in the nation that has been nominated by fellow breeders as candidate for election as delegate to represent the Black-and-White breed at the forty-sixth annual convention of the Holstein-Friesian association of America at Syracuse, New York, on June 2. Ballots will be mailed soon to the 21,000 active members of the association and the members in each state will vote for one to 25 of the delegates, depending on the number of delegates to which each state is entitled. These ballots must be filled in and returned to the secretary's office at Brattleboro, Vt., not later than April 24th. The final returns on the election will be known by the middle of May and the successful candidates will be notified of their election, which is considered quite an honor among breeders of Holsteins.

Nominees in seven states, which are entitled to only one delegate each and from which only one nomination was received, are certain of election. These are the states of Alabama, Delaware, District of Columbia, Florida, Mississippi, Tennessee and Wyoming. No nominations were received from Arkansas, Georgia, Louisiana or Canada. In the 39 other states, from one to 28 delegates will be chosen and the number of candidates for election varies from two to 123.

The increasing interest in dairying as a means of securing cash returns on the farm through more efficient dairy cattle is indicated by the unusually large number of candidates for which applications were made, the total figure of 734 exceeding the 1930 figures by more than 70 per cent and representing 544 different dairymen. The total number, a total of 200 delegates would be eligible for election but, due to the failure of the Holstein breeders in three states and Canada to make applications, the number of delegates that will be elected for 1931 is 196 compared to an eligible 192 for 1930.

In order to insure a representative number of delegates from each state, the railroad and Pullman fare to Syracuse, N. Y., and return is paid by the Holstein-Friesian Association of America. These delegates are the men and women that determine the future policies of the Black-and-White breed and it is considered a great honor and a mark of confidence from their fellow breeders to be chosen as a delegate to the annual convention.

The number of delegates to which each state is entitled is determined by the number of members of the Holstein-Friesian Association of America in the state. Each state is entitled to at least one delegate and one delegate is allowed for each 200 members or major fraction thereof so that any state with more than 200 members is entitled to two or more delegates.

New York heads the list with the greatest number of delegates, a total of 28, but Wisconsin is ambitious and takes the lead in the number of nominations with a total of 123 eligible to fill the 25 delegate places. The number of candidates nominated by each state and the number of delegates to which each state is entitled are listed below:

Alabama 1-1; Arizona 4-2; California 13-3; Colorado 4-2; Connecticut 4-2; Delaware 1-1; District of Columbia 1-1; Idaho 6-2; Illinois 31-10; Indiana 14-4; Iowa 22-6; Kansas 14-4; Kentucky 4-2; Maine 3-3; Maryland 20-3; Massachusetts 11-4; Michigan 53-11; Minnesota 41-11; Mississippi 1-1; Missouri 6-2; Montana 3-2; Nebraska 7-3; Nevada 3-1; New Hampshire 2-2; New Jersey 6-4; New Mexico 2-1; New York 28-28; North Carolina 3-1; North Dakota 3-2; Ohio 33-12; Oklahoma 11-2; Oregon 8-2; Pennsylvania 57-14; Rhode Island 3-1; South Carolina 2-1; South Dakota 6-2; Tennessee 1-1; Texas 5-2; Utah 3-2; Vermont 17-5; Virginia 5-2; Washington 6-3; West Virginia 2-1; Wisconsin 123-25; and Wyoming 1-1.

It is interesting to note that there are more than 31,000 members of the Holstein-Friesian Association of America which is approximately five times the membership of the other four dairy breeds combined.

JOHNSON CAN'T KEEP AWAY FROM JAILHOUSE

Madison — (P) — J. A. (Dugan) Johnson, celebrated in the annals of crime in Wisconsin, who served 10 years in the state prison for a murder he did not do, still is having trouble with the law.

Tuesday he was lodged in the city jail here for sleeping in a railroad roundhouse without permission. He was released, but police expressed the hope that he receives the $5,000 the legislature seeks to appropriate to him for the injustice of the long prison term. The bill has passed the Senate, but must receive Assembly approval and the governor's signature before the money can be given.

Johnson, who said he was homeless and has no occupation, was charged with the slaying of Annie Lamberger here in 1911. A notice, alleged to have been obtained under duress, was instrumental in bringing his plea of guilty and a subsequent sentence to the state prison. In 1921, U. S. Senator John C. Blaine, then governor, became convinced Johnson was guiltless and pardoned him.

PEIPING SKULL'S RACIAL IDENTITY HIDDEN BY MASK

Scientists Have Tedious Task Removing Particles of Stone

Peiping — (AP)— Man, woman gorilla?

The mask which hides the answer, a coating of flinty stone, is coming off the frontal bones of the famous Peiping "woman" a few grains at a time.

Dug from a million-year-old geological strata north of Peiping by W. C. Pei, and hailed as a new species of early man, this relic still faces its final examinations at the hands of scientists.

First the skull was judged to be that of a man. Then as more of the covering was removed the probability was announced that it is a woman's head. Now Sir John Blundell has spoken openly his belief that it is nothing more than a member of the gorilla family.

The finest kind of measurements of the mineralized bony curves may be necessary to settle doubts.

Whatever he or it is, this skull cap makes its home now in the east of the Rockefeller Foundation hospital in Peiping. It is under the sole care of Dr. Davidson Black, anatomist of the hospital. He believes the ancient bones are human.

With fine tools he is removing the rock coating the interior of the skull almost a grain at a time. The price, less relic, preserved in desert sands for centuries, must not be ruined by hurried preparations.

When the interior is cleared, the brain capacity can be measured, and it may tell of a being who had traveled far on the road toward human intelligence.

In the whole world there are only two other comparable finds. They are the Pittdown fragments recovered in England from geological strata identified as a million years old, and the old Java man, the much argued Pithecanthropus Erectus, frequently estimated at half a million years.

Both the others are more fragmentary. Chinese skulls, Black's patient picking may go far toward clarifying man's antiquity.

STAGE FINAL MUSIC FESTIVAL AT BAY

Green Bay, Oshkosh and Appleton Musicians to Join in Program

The third and last music festival concert of the Fox River Valley association will be held Friday night, April 17, in East high school, Green Bay.

The Appleton high school chorus of 50 voices will be directed by Jax L. Williams; Green Bay will open the concert with its combined orchestra, under Y. Oliver; the Oshkosh honor band, directed by F. H. Jabe, will represent Oshkosh high school on the program.

This is the second year the organization has been in existence. It was begun in an effort to stimulate among high schools an interest in music that is co-operative as well as competitive. The first concert was held in Appleton last January. The second at Oshkosh last month, was one of the most successful concerts ever given by the high schools.

Herbert H. Heible, principal of the Appleton high school, is the manager-treasurer of the organization.

INVESTMENT SCHOOL TRAINS HEIRESES

Babson Park, Fla. (AP)—Rich young American women now may marry the chauffeur or fortune-hunting nobleman with a greater degree of impunity than before.

A college for the conservation of the fortunes of young heiresses is opening its fourth season here.

For many years Roger W. Babson, economist and statistician, has been assembling facts and making deductions concerning business.

Mrs. Babson decided that wealthy young ladies should know something about these things if they desire to remain wealthy.

So Webber college, named in honor of Camille Grace Webber, infant granddaughter of the Babsons, was founded. A beautiful building was constructed here at the Babson winter home. A score or more of wealthy girls are in attendance.

Lessons in the best methods of making investments, selecting securities, business usages and other practical subjects are the majors, though the usual "finishing" courses such as languages, arts, social graces and sports are given attention.

MOTHER IS STUDENT IN SCHOOL WITH CHILDREN

Tellus Plains, Tenn.—(AP)—Mrs. Maymie Sloan, 26, is a regular attendant at the Tellus Plains Grammar school with her three children. There are two little girls, Gladys, 6, and Louise, 5, who think it great fun to go to school with mother but Osborne, 10, says nothing.

Mrs. Sloan although in the eighth grade, sits in the same room with her boy in the third grade.

Mrs. Sloan was married 11 years ago. Because she was needed at home, she quit school after the seventh grade to help with the cotton and tobacco.

Now that she is married and the mother of three children, she says she has realized the need of an education, and is going back to school to get it in spite of the sacrifices it takes. She expects to finish high school.

Meet your friends at Greenville Pavilion, Sunday.

BOARD FAILS TO LET WORK FOR MUSEUM

Another Meeting With Contractors Called for Next Monday

Special to Post-Crescent

New London—A second meeting of the library board with the seven lowest bidders on the proposed museum building was held on Thursday afternoon. No contract was awarded, however. The board meeting with the contractors is going through a process of elimination, seeking to lower the cost of the building without cheapening its beauty or permanence.

Such matters as whether beaming would be used in the ceiling of the building have been discussed, as well as flooring and the feasibility of plastering on the tile walls without the use of lath. It has been decided that the lath will not be used, and members of the board felt that though this may be a loss in some ways, the presence of a plain plastered ceiling will be an advantage to the uses of a museum, the plaster acting as a reflector. Whether plain gray or colored cement will be used also is a point of decision, though it was first figured that a tile substance could be used. Several hundred dollars may be saved if a plain or colored floor is used.

The parging process is necessary since the entire fund left for the building is only $20,000. Some of this sum must be saved for future maintenance, since the museum will have no other means of upkeep after its completion. It had been thought that a building could be erected for about $12,000, but nearly all bids were well above this figure.

A third meeting will be held at 4 o'clock Monday afternoon.

Lloyd Lange appeared before the board to discuss the possibilities of placing a good baseball team in the field for Kimberly this year. Mr. Lange, who claimed that the outlook is very bright for good players, asked the board for the necessary backing and support of the team. The board promised its support when finances are needed.

The board also discussed the necessity of employing a night policeman, due to the fact that stores are being broken into during the hours of 4 and 6 o'clock in the morning. It was voted to lay it on the table until the last meeting of the old board to be held Monday evening, April 13. The Village Attorney C. G. # ROWBOAT HELPS OUT VOTERS AT LEEMAN POLLS

Leeman—Voting at Leeman Tuesday was real sport. Not just a dusty walk or drive to the polls, the casual dropping of a ballot, a "howdy" to election officials, and the trudge back home. No, sir, every voter got a free ride to and from.

The pouring of concrete for the road bed on the Leeman bridge made it necessary for all voters west of Leeman to boat across the Wolf river to cast their ballots. A rowboat was kept busy during the day, totting voters back and forth.

ECONOMICS CLASS FINISHES COURSE

Banquet at Hotel Wednesday Marks End of Series of Study Meetings

Chilton—Thirteen members of the Calumet-co branch of the I. B. A. held a banquet at the Hotel Chilton Wednesday evening. These men, who during the past winter have been enrolled in a class which studied standard economics, finished their course last week. The instructor was G. M. Morrissey. The members present were: Mel Blomer, Robert Hugo, Henry Schommer, Lorin Schumacher and William Stauss of Chilton, Eugene Wulff of New Holstein, Hugh Flatley and Ray Hawley of Stockbridge, John Jaekels of Hilbert, and Joseph Binsfeld, Ray Kleiber, Clem Wolf and Victor C. Wolf of Brillion. The guests were Mr. Morrissey, A. E. Lemm, assistant manager of the Ninth ward office, and Lloyd Hull, assistant secretary of the Wisconsin Bangers' association, both of Milwaukee. The latter two, in short addresses, stressed the necessity for continued study and improvement, in banking as well as other occupations, and stated that the banker who expects to advance in his chosen work must keep abreast of the times by continued study. Next year the class will take up the study of standard banking.

Dr. William Lamers, director of the school of speech in Marquette University, spoke before the high school on Thursday morning. He talked on vocational guidance and pointed out very clearly that lack of application is the major cause of the large number of failures in colleges and universities.

SECURE LAND OPTIONS FOR NEW HIGHWAY

Calumet-co Highway Officials Confer With Farmers, Realtors

Forest Junction—County highway officials have been working in the vicinity securing land options from real estate owners through whose lands the new Highway 57 is to be constructed.

The route that is being followed leaves Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific railroad tracks between here and Hilbert at the Mrs. Bernice Ott farm and travels northward on a present town road past the John Seybold, Charles Schaefer, John and Levi Broehm farms as far as Highway 10. Following that highway eastward to its junction with county trunk highway D at the church corner in this village, it branches off northward on the line between the Martin Diekvoos and Arthur Stanelle farms, crossing the latter diagonally at its north end to a location adjacent to the railroad tracks.

Some details of the proposed route have not yet been perfected. Widening of the road at the John Broehm farm may involve removal of the Hickory Grove cheese factory situated on leased ground at that farm. Disposition of the Dr. F. J. Wollersheim premises on the Diekvoos-Stanelle line at the church corner has not yet been determined. No arrangements have been attempted where the new route doubles Highway 10.

Farmers Begin Work

Land working operations preparatory to spring seeding were begun on farms here this morning. Several banks in some places had not yet completely vanished, dried-off portions of fields were entered with plows and harrows. Snow, in some cases, was being plowed under. This practice, farmers said is beneficial in conserving the moisture, but harrowing through snow was being avoided on account of its tendency to harden the soil.

While the snowstorm of ten days ago supplied a greater amount of moisture than has been received for several months, a still greater amount will be required for healthy sprouting of the seeds, it is said. The temperature here reached a high mark of between 65 and 70 degrees, Wednesday afternoon contributing somewhat to the discomfort of draft horses engaged in the land working activities.

Conducted by Contest Board of A. A. A. on Indianapolis Speedway

FOR MORE than 3 weeks, 13 cars of prominent makes whirled around the Indianapolis Speedway in probably the most thorough and comprehensive lubrication study ever made. Day and night the work went on. Relays of drivers rolled up a total mileage for all cars exceeding 100,000 miles.

The Contest Board of the American Automobile Association conducted this work and is compiling the results for certification. The records involve almost 1,000,000 calculations. Close to 100 men were employed on this project. Its broad scope and thoroughness attracted wide attention. Car manufacturers sent representatives to the track for observation.

Here are some of the technical questions included in this elaborate lubrication study:

- 1 Extent to which motor oil thins out in the crankcase?
- 2 Effect of speed on oil consumption?
- 3 Volume of carbon formed with various grades (viscosities) of oil at different speeds?
- 4 Engine wear at known speeds with various grades of motor oil?

Soon these cars will take to the road on extensive individual tours. These tours will serve a dual purpose. First, to deliver to automobile dealers the certified results of the lubrication study and give them the privilege of inspecting their car. Second, to carry on the lubrication study under the identical conditions that your car faces every day. Watch for these cars.

The broad scope and thoroughness of this work explains why Standard Oil Company (Indiana) is able to provide you with motor oil that meets exactly the lubricating requirements of your car.

URGE MORE MEN AND EQUIPMENT TO FIGHT FIRES

Board of Fire Underwriters Completes Report on Appleton

tation of explosives and inflammables.

8. That owners of existing defective constructed buildings in conflagration areas be required to protect floor, party-wall and exposed window openings.

9. That automatic sprinkler equipment be required in all buildings which by reason of their size might act as conflagration breeders.

Basis For Rates

The national board of fire underwriters is an organization of insurance companies which fixes fire insurance rates in cities. These rates are based on reports similar to the one just made by the board in Appleton. If the common council does not carry out the recommendations there is a possibility that insurance here will be raised.

The engineers praised officials of the water department but pointed out that while pumping station records are complete, in some important details of the distribution system records are not available.

The report said the fire department is undermanned and that all the equipment and men are stationed in one house far removed from some fire districts, making long runs necessary. The need of additional equipment also is pointed out.

The report devoted by the city electrician to maintenance is insufficient for proper care of the fire alarm system and an assistant is needed to relieve him of some of these duties. Most of the fire alarm system is obsolete and of ancient type and the entire system needs to be remodeled.

Poor Fire Prevention

Construction of the city is under good municipal supervision, but the short term of the building inspector is an unfavorable feature and may lead to frequent changes. Construction in the city, however, is weak from fire prevention standpoint.

While state laws which govern the manufacture, sale, storage and use of explosives and combustible materials are good, they are inadequate the report finds, and a recommendation is made that the city adopt a complete regulatory ordinance of its own.

Electrical laws and quality of supervision in the city is good, the report finds. Some old work is in poor condition and regular inspection of all installations are needed to insure proper maintenance.

In the principal mercantile district, fire-resistive weak construction in large and excessive areas make serious group fires possible. The general hazard is increased in the east portion of the district by the large proportion of frame construction. The value of the adequate water supply is lessened somewhat by the undermanned and under-equipped fire department.

Subject To Danger

Manufacturing groups in various parts of the city are subject to severe fires which might easily reach conflagration proportions due to the high combustibility of stocks and the excessive fire areas. The inadequacy of the water supply in most of these districts and the poor distribution of the fire department combine to increase the probability hazard.

Combustible roofing in residential sections presents a severe, flying brand hazard.

Following is a summary of the commission's report on fire fighting facilities of the city, divided into various classes:

Water supply—Municipal works operate under a commission with no single executive in charge. Records are fair. The supply of water is inadequate but unreliable due to arrangement of piping in and around the station. Pumping equipment is in good condition and the operating crew is competent. The pumping station contains some combustible material; exposures are moderately severe; and there is insufficient protection. Pressures are good. Consumption is low; all services are metered. Distribution system deficient in arterial and secondary streets with large amount of dead end mains. Average valve spacing is good. Hydrant spacing is fair; but many of unsatisfactory size and type.

Good Apparatus

"Fire department—Full paid, with two platoons. Under good supervision and commanded by experienced chief officers. Companies in single station necessitating long hauls. Equipment is satisfactory. The department is seriously undermanned. Appointment is made under civil service with mainly satisfactory provisions. Apparatus is in good mechanical condition. No turret or ladder pipe on hand; but there is a good supply of other heavy stream and minor equipment, except salvage appliances. Chemical service is good. Fire supply is ample and well-carried; but the department has no three-inch hose. Repair facilities are inadequate. Discipline and morale are good. Drills are infrequent and incomplete. Fire methods are mainly satisfactory but hampered by undermanning and lack of salvage equipment. Building inspections made by one man. Records are fairly good.

"Fire alarm system—The automatic system is in operative condition but equipment and most of the boxes are of poor and obsolete type. All circuits are aerial and in fairly good condition, but most are overloaded and on poles carrying high potential; circuit protection is inadequate. Box distribution poor; many private and inaccessible; some inconspicuous. Telephone facilities fairly good; but arrangement for receipt of alarms when companies are out. Tests and inspection infrequent. Records lacking.

Get Outside Aid

"Fire department auxiliaries—The department is aided by a state fire

Beauty Crop

The spring beauty crop in Europe is more than fair, judging by these attractive products of two countries. Elyor Nordstrom (below) looks like—you guessed it—Greta Garbo. She won a contest staged in Stockholm, Sweden, to find the girl who most resembled the Swedish-American screen star. Lillie Lucienne Clement (above), a Paris sales girl, has been chosen "Queen of Queens" in the French capital and will reign during the annual Mi-Carême celebrations.

marshals with ample powers. Police cooperation is good. Public service corporations render aid on call. Telephone service widely distributed and much used for sending fire alarms. Fair amount of private fire protection. Substantial outside aid available in 30 minutes.

Summary on the above—Water supply is adequate but somewhat unreliable. Adequate quantities available in principal mercantile district; good to poor elsewhere. Fire department under-equipped, seriously under manned, and companies not well distributed, but with substantial outside aid available. Fire alarm system is inadequate and unreliable.

Following is a report on structural conditions and hazards:

"Building department—State laws are few. Few municipal regulations. Structural conditions weak.

"Explosives and inflammables—State laws fairly good, but incomplete. Few municipal laws. Inspection force inadequate and local conditions fair to poor.

"Electricity—Municipal supervision under experienced inspector. Standards equivalent to the National Electrical code. New work fairly good and old work in poor condition. Moderately severe obstruction from overhead wires. No trouble from electrolysis.

Fear Group Fire

"Configuration hazard—Severe group fires are probable in the principal mercantile district due to fire-resistive weak construction in large and excessive fire areas. Frame construction increases the hazard of spreading fires in the eastern part of the district. Water supply is not adequate but fire-fighting facilities are seriously deficient and the probability of a general conflagration is moderately severe.

"Manufacturing districts—Serious group fires which might easily spread are probable. The flying brand hazard, incident to wooden shingled roofs, is severe in residential districts.

The report points out that substantial outside aid is available from Menasha, Neenah, Little Chute, Kimberly, combined Locks and Kaukauna, all within seven miles; and from Hortonville, New London, Green Bay and Oshkosh, all within 14 to 28 miles. Those threats of all these are national standard. An informal agreement exists between the mayors and chiefs of these cities whereby the chiefs may extend mutual aid without delay for further authorization.

The investigation of conditions in Appleton was made by W. S. Rathbun and L. A. Vincent, engineers with the committee on fire prevention and engineering standards of the national board. The engineers spent two weeks in the city last October.

It was the first time the city was investigated by the national board, as in former years Appleton was under jurisdiction of the Wisconsin Inspection bureau because its population was under 25,000. The last complete inspection in the city was made seven years ago, but inspections in the future will follow at five-year intervals.

Following are the recommendations for improvements as made in the report:

1. "That records of the water distribution system be improved by installing a card record system giving details of all valves and hydrants, with location measurements for valves, and that records be kept of their inspection, operation, conditions and repairs made, and that a book record, suitable for field use, giving details of location and operation of valves be installed.

2. "That a responsible employee of the water department, familiar with the system, respond to all second alarms to cooperate with the fire department, operate valves, and call an emergency crew if necessary.

3. "That in connection with any new work the intake, station and discharge piping be so arranged and gated that no valve will be seriously curtailed or interrupted the supply.

4. "That the reliability of pumping capacity be increased by installing an additional high-lift pump of at least 1,000,000 gallon capacity, by maintaining a minimum storage of 250,000 gallons in the elevated tank.

5. "That exposed opening in the pumping station be suitably protected and that chemical extinguishers be provided in the pump rooms.

6. "That the distribution system be strengthened by the installation of additional mains (listed above). 2 More Companies

17. "That engine companies, each equipped with a motor pumper of not less than 750 gallons capacity, with a chemical or water tank, be placed in service in the vicinities of College-ave and Story-st; and Wisconsin-ave and Onondaga-st; and that eventually an engine company be established south of the river.

22. 25. "That the municipal building code be amended to conform with modern requirements for construction and fire prevention as given in the National Board Building code, especially as to limitations of heights and areas, protection to openings in walls, wall thicknesses, roof coverings and requirements for private fire protection.

26. "That a complete code of regulations governing the manufacture, sale, storage and transportation of explosives and inflammables be adopted by ordinance, the chief of the fire department to be held solely responsible for its enforcement. It is recommended that the suggested fire prevention ordinance, promulgated by the National Board of Fire Underwriters, be used as a guide in framing new regulations.

WOMAN WHO LIVED IN WILD WEST DIES

Saw Beginning of Dodge City, Kas., and Exploits of Gunmen

Dodge City, Kas.—(P)—A woman who knew the wild west of Bill Hickok's days, mingled as a dance hall girl among its cowboys and gunmen and served as rooming house proprietor is dead.

Mrs. Anne Anderson, 84, whose recollections were based on actual experiences, succumbed to heart disease yesterday.

She knew the first pages of Dodge City's history, and the story of the woman buried among the gunmen on boot hill. She had a fight with another girl and was a "cow" wound."

Mrs. Anderson would relate, "An infection led to blood poisoning."

And Mrs. Anderson would continue the story of how one minister refused to conduct the funeral and how cowboys guarded an itinerant preacher who attended the last rites and was escorted back home to Ohio.

Mrs. Anderson hailed none of the Dodge City gunfights as brave. "They were a bunch of cowards," she said.

As for the exploits of "Fat" Masterson, the sheriff, in his famous fight on Main-st:

"He was standing behind a pile of steel rails at the railroad station shootin' back and forth with a man entered and shot him in the chest. He was shot in the chest and died."

And none dared contradict her for she would say, "I saw it."

RETAIL PRICES FAIL TO FOLLOW DECLINES

Department Tells Legislature That Meat, Bread Costs Too Much

Madison—(AP)—The downward trend in the wholesale price of meat and bread in Wisconsin during the past year has not brought a corresponding decline in retail prices, the state department of agriculture and markets said in a report to the legislature last night.

Investigation of the spread between wholesale and retail prices of bread and meat was undertaken by the department at the request of the legislature. Statistics on the price of meat were obtained from 167 meat markets in seven cities and bread prices were gathered from 222 retail groceries in eight communities.

The cities selected for the meat investigation were Kenosha, Milwaukee, Madison, Janesville, Green Bay, Superior, and LaCrosse. In the bread price investigation the same cities plus Racine were used as being representative of conditions throughout the state.

The retailers' margin on bread varied from one-half cent to two cents one one pound loaves and from one-half to four cents on one and one-half pound loaves. This margin, or gross profit, represented 17.65 per cent of the consumers' bread dollar. The baker's net profit was found to be 2.79 per cent of the bread dollar. The report did not show the gross profit of bakers.

The average mark-up of the retailers' price over the wholesale prices in the seven cities was 49.3 per cent for beef; 47.6 per cent for veal; 44.8 per cent for lamb, and 37.9 per cent for pork. The gross profit on retail sales showed 33 per cent for beef; 32 per cent for veal; 30.9 per cent for lamb, and 27.4 per cent for pork.

More than 100 new industrial plants began operation in the Piedmont section of North Carolina in 1930.

Poland has decided to assist financially in the construction of private dwellings.

OFFICIAL SURE HE HAS SLAYER OF RICH WOMAN

Prosecutor "Satisfied Beyond Doubt" Mrs. Thomson Killed Miss Dilley

Wilkesbarre, Pa., (AP)—Luzerne authorities said today they were satisfied beyond a doubt that Mrs. Frances Thomson, 29, Wellesley college graduate and former school teacher, was the slayer of Miss Minnie Dilley, 76, eccentric and wealthy spinster, who was found slain in her home at Forty Fort, near here last Saturday.

Mrs. Thomson, arrested in Pittsburgh Thursday night, told police that Miss Dilley had exercised a "strange influence" over her husband and that she wanted him to become leader of a "love cult" composed of former school teachers. She denied any knowledge of the slaying. Mrs. Thomson was brought here from Pittsburgh last night.

After questioning Mrs. Thomson, District Attorney Thomas M. Lewis handed newspapermen a statement in which he said that "as the result of the interview, together with corroborating facts and circumstances, we are satisfied beyond any doubt that Mrs. Thomson killed Minnie E. Dilley Friday morning April 3rd, between the hours of 8 and 9 o'clock."

Lewis said Miss Dilley was first beaten into unconsciousness with a ginger ale bottle and later had her throat cut with a large bread knife. Lewis' statement said that Mrs. Thomson hitch-hiked to Forty Fort, after leaving her children with a neighbor in Pittsburgh. She failed to gain entrance to the Dilley home and traveled to Wilkesbarre where she spent the night. She returned to Forty Fort Friday morning and gained entrance to the home, and "after a brief period assailed the victim."

"After the crime she immediately started for Pittsburgh, hitch-hiking enroute and arrived at her home Saturday afternoon."

"In the interests of public justice, no further information can be divulged at the present time."

Lewis declined to say whether Mrs. Thomson had made a confession.

Your Birthday

"ARIES"
If April 11th is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 10 a. m. to 11:30 a. m., from 3 p. m. to 6 p. m. and from 10 p. m. to 11:15 p. m. The danger periods are from noon to 2 p. m. and from 7:30 p. m. to 9 p. m.

The planetary aspects of April 11th do not indicate any positive signs. They denote, rather, a degree of passivity and indifference. Nothing demanding enterprise or involving drastic change should be attempted. The path of least resistance, wherever practical, should be followed.

Children born on this April 11th, always will desire to excel in everything that they undertake. They will never be satisfied with second place. They will be optimistic, whole-souled and spontaneous, and never put on airs or assume attitudes. Their futures promise to be crowned with success.

If you were born on April 11th, you are extremely conservative in both thought and action. You have no liking for new ideas and new conceptions. You cling to the old with a tenacity of purpose worthy of a better cause. You believe in moving slowly, and have little resourcefulness or adaptability. This applies, in your case, equally to religion, politics and social affairs. You have no spirit of adventure, and are only happy when you travel along the well-beaten path.

You are, of course, at all times conventional, and you are very much influenced not by your own originality of thought but by what "Mrs. Grundy" expects. Your vision is limited, and being by nature a creature of habit, you are invariably uninteresting. You also believe very strongly in tradition, and have a profound respect for heredity.

You are intelligent in other respects, and a hard worker, and although you will never make a stir in the world, you will possibly earn success where others, more daring, would fail. You are a staunch friend, and never refuse help or counsel to those who seek either the one or the other. Your home life will be very correct, but sadly unemotional.

PLAN FOR TUNNEL UNDER GIBRALTAR APPEARS FEASIBLE

Spanish Commission Finds Idea is Less Fantastic Than at First Thought

BY GEORGE M. JOHNSON
Tarifa, Spain.—(AP)—The Spanish government commission which has been testing the feasibility of a tunnel under the Straits of Gibraltar to connect Spain and North Africa, is beginning to believe the project is less fantastic than it sounds.

Luis de Pena, head of the commission, has said that if the final analysis proves favorable, the engineering difficulties would not be so great as the problem of raising enough money to finance such an undertaking. He estimated for The Associated Press that several hundred millions of dollars would be required.

Lt. Col. Pedro Jovenols, another member of the commission, has become an enthusiastic supporter of the scheme. He believes that construction of the tunnel is only a question of time.

The project was conceived about 75 years ago by a French engineer, Laurent de Villedeuil. It has since been considered by engineers of Spain, England, France and some other countries but in each case, when tests were made, there was wide divergence of opinion as to actual experimental results. The present commission was appointed by the Spanish government in an endeavor to resolve these doubts, one way or the other.

The commission laid out its work in two main fields. First, geological strata were to be explored and second, data was to be assembled regarding water conditions in the Straits.

In testing the rocks, two wells are being sunk. One is a short distance outside of this city while the other is about 18 miles away on the African side but within the bounds of Spanish Morocco. Whether the tunnel, if constructed, will be a direct path between these two points remains to be seen as unfavorable currents and ground formations might force a deviation.

The well near here has reached a depth of 300 meters (984 feet) but will eventually be sunk to 1,350 feet. The African shaft is to be identical and is being constructed by a Belgian company although all work is under a Spanish government subsidy. Geological experts will compare the strata tapped by the two wells and if they are identical the conclusion will be that the same ground underlies the straits. Surface tests already have indicated similarity.

A boat with modern sounding apparatus is being rigged in Copenhagen to test the depths and currents of the straits. It is believed by Spanish engineers, following first tests, that the maximum depth of the straits is about 1,800 feet. This is considerably less than was formerly believed and should prove a favorable factor if construction work is ever commenced.

The tunnel, according to various schemes, has been proposed to include a highway, pedestrian walks and railroad tracks. The problem of gauges of rails arises in this connection since Spanish lines differ from those in Africa and France and a conformation would be necessary.

But Colonel Jovenols does not believe the difficulties are great beyond the tremendous cost of financing. Jovenols said that Spain looks forward to the day when Europe and Africa will be linked. "We realize that the tunnel can be built only after tremendous work and expense," he added, "but with its vital importance as a commercial undertaking, other powers probably would be interested in it. Of course, Spain, if possible, would wish it as a purely national affair."

Such a tunnel, he feels, would strengthen Spain's power in the Mediterranean and would prove almost invaluable in war as a means of troop transportation. The risk of attack by submarines or airplanes would be removed, he says, and the tunnel would be practically impregnable to depth bombs and mines.

Government officials feel the tube would bolster their north African holdings and provide Spain with added impetus in competing with French, British and Italian influence there.

General Damazo Berenguer, premier of Spain and former Spanish Moroccan high commissioner, wrote in a book by Colonel Jovenols that the tunnel would make Spain's military campaigns in north Africa "really fruitful."

WATCH NERVES GROW IN TADPOLE'S TAIL

University, Va.—(AP)—Tadpoles' tails are telling University of Virginia scientists a new story of first aid for nerves.

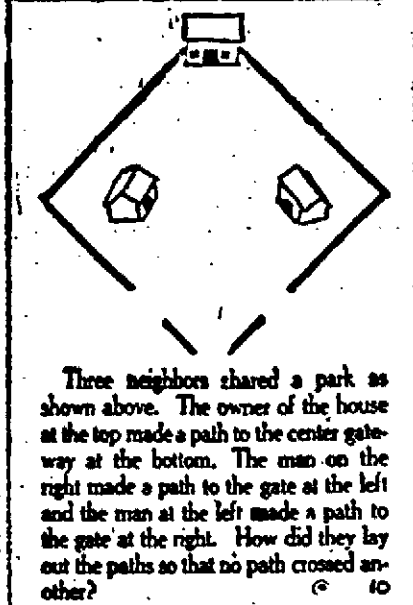

The tails are transparent. Within them living nerves are watched under the microscope by a method reported by Dr. Carl C. Spelzel of the medical school to the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

The nerves start as tiny sprouts, grow, extend and finally branch into networks. But, like plants breaking through soil, they meet obstacles. On such occasions tiny cells are seen occasionally sliding along the nerve to the point of trouble.

These first aid cells are makers of the sheath which insulates all nerves. Sometimes it almost seems that a nerve radios back home for an extra supply of sheath cells. The latter have been observed migrating along one nerve to transfer at some crossing to another nerve fiber.

Yesterday's Stickler Solved

The diagram of two circles may be drawn, without lifting the pencil from the paper, in this manner: Take a piece of paper and fold a corner in, as indicated in the diagram. Then draw the inner circle to touch the edge of the folded piece. Then draw over the folded corner of the paper until you reach the point where the outer circle is to be. Start the outer circle and, when you get back on the main paper, remove the folded corner and complete the outer circle.

GOLDEN GATE SPAN OF 9,000 FEET TO COST $35,000,000

Counties Pass Bond Issue and World's Largest Bridge to Be Started

San Francisco.—(AP)—A $35,000,000 bond issue passed by northern California counties has removed the last obstacle to construction of the Golden Gate bridge, the world's longest single suspension highway span.

It will hang on two steel cables weighing 43,750,000 pounds from towers 740 feet high.

Although the Golden Gate is only slightly more than a mile wide, the bridge will stretch 8,943 feet from portal to portal.

The central span will be 4,105 feet long, and 220 feet above high water at the center, both side spans going out 1,100 feet each to the bridgeheads.

Construction will require four years and provide employment for hundreds of idle men. There will be an annual payroll of $735,000.

For the first time in bridge building, a modernistic retracting type of architecture will be employed, with vertical lines to emphasize the design. Two of the towers will have glass-encased observation platforms on top, and plazas at each end.

Towers, surmounted by aerial beacons, will be built of a series of non-encased square steel cells "stopper off" to give a receding effect.

The observation platforms provide a panoramic view of the Pacific, San Francisco bay and the cities on its shores.

Ten-foot sidewalks, with alcove benches at intervals, will flank a 60-foot roadway with six lanes for motor traffic and two for bus service. The total width will be 90 feet.

A great circular plaza on the San Francisco side, with a terraced and landscaped encampment, will be surrounded by a portal structure, with two massive pylons at the bridge level.

The entire structure will be coated with aluminum paint, while strings of lights will outline the full length of each cable at night. Plazas, portal structures, pylons and towers will be flood-lighted and aerial beacons will flash atop the towers.

A series of electrolifts will be placed across the bridge, while another series will extend along highways leading to and from each end. The war department has approved the plans and it is held that the structure will be no menace to navigation.

Its central span will be more than 400 feet longer than the bridge being built across the Hudson river near New York, and its cables will be approximately three and a half feet thick.

Entrance to the bridge on San Francisco's side passes through the presidio and starts at Army point, tip of a long narrow peninsula on which San Francisco is located. On the Marin side the bridge entrance is near Fort Baker. Interference with the military works will be avoided in construction and use of the bridge.

PAULINA LOSES REAL PAL IN DADDY'S DEATH

Washington.—(AP)—The house lost a speaker today but Paulina Longworth mourned her "daddy."

The flax-haired 6-year-old daughter of the speaker and granddaughter of President Roosevelt was in Cincinnati, miles from her father's bedside awaiting his coming for a promised vacation together.

Miss Paulina and Mr. Longworth were real pals. No demands warranted an interference in their plans together, and on several occasions she was a delighted observer in the house gallery or on the floor beside her proud parent.

Only recently an important visitor sought an engagement with the speaker on a certain afternoon. He was told it was impossible.

"My daughter is participating in a children's play," the speaker was reported to have said. "I could not afford to miss that."

OFFICIAL SURE HE HAS SLAYER OF RICH WOMAN

Prosecutor "Satisfied Beyond Doubt" Mrs. Thomsen Killed Miss Dilley

Wilkesbarre, Pa. —(P)— Luzerne authorities said today they were "satisfied beyond a doubt" that Mrs. Frances Thomsen, 29, Wellesley college graduate and former school teacher, was the slayer of Miss Minnie Dilley, 78, eccentric and wealthy spinster, who was found slain in her home at Forty Fort, near here last Saturday.

Mrs. Thomsen, arrested in Pittsburgh Thursday night, told police that Miss Dilley had exercised a "strange influence" over her husband and that she wanted him to become leader of a "love cult" composed of former school teachers. She denied any knowledge of the slaying. Mrs. Thomsen was brought here from Pittsburgh last night.

After questioning Mrs. Thomsen, District Attorney Thomas M. Lewis handed newspapermen a statement in which he said that "as the result of the interview, together with corroborating facts and circumstances we are satisfied beyond any doubt that Mrs. Thomsen killed Minnie E. Dilley Friday morning April 8, between the hours of 8 and 9 o'clock."

Lewis said Miss Dilley was first beaten into unconsciousness with a ginger ale bottle and later had her throat cut with a large bread knife. Lewis' statement said that Mrs. Thomsen hitch-hiked to Forty Fort, after leaving her three children with a neighbor in Pittsburgh. She failed to gain entrance to the Dilley home and traveled to Wilkesbarre where she spent the night. She returned to Forty Fort Friday morning and gained entrance to the home, and "after a brief period assailed the victim."

"After the crime she immediately started for Pittsburgh, hitch-hiking enroute and arrived at her home Saturday afternoon."

"In the interests of public justice, no further information can be divulged at the present time."

Lewis declined to say whether Mrs. Thomsen had made a confession.

Your Birthday

"ARIES"

If April 11th is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 10 a. m. to 11:30 a. m., from 3 p. m. to 6 p. m. and from 10 p. m. to 11:15 p. m. The danger periods are from noon to 2 p. m. and from 7:30 p. m. to 9 p. m.

The planetary aspects of April 11th do not indicate any positive signs. They denote, rather, a degree of passivity and indifference. Nothing demanding enterprise or involving drastic change should be attempted. The path of least resistance, wherever practical, should be followed.

Children born on this April 11th, always will desire to excel in everything that they undertake. They will never be satisfied with second place. They will be optimistic, whole-souled and spontaneous, and never put on airs or assume attitudes. Their futures promise to be crowned with success.

If you were born on April 11th, you are extremely conservative in both thought and action. You have no liking for new ideas and new conceptions. You cling to the old with a tenacity of purpose worthy of a better cause. You believe in moving slowly, and have little resourcefulness or adaptability. This applies, in your case, equally to religion, politics and social affairs. You have no spirit of adventure, and are only happy when you travel along the well-beaten path.

You are, of course, at all times conventional, and you are very much influenced, not by your own originality of thought but by what "Mrs. Grundy" expects. Your vision is limited, and being by nature a creature of habit, you are invariably uninteresting. You also believe very strongly in tradition, and have a profound respect for heredity.

You are intelligent in other respects, and a hard worker, and although you will never make a stir in the world, you will possibly earn success where others, more daring, would fail. You are a staunch friend, and never refuse help or counsel to those who seek either the one or the other. Your home life will be very correct, but sadly unemotional.

Successful People Born April 11th:

- 1—Charles W. Coudock—actor.
- 2—Augustus E. Silliman—financier and author.
- 3—Charles Evans Hughes—Chief Justice, U. S. Supreme Court.
- 4—George Canning — English statesman.
- 5—Paul Dwight Moody—evangelist.

WATCH NERVES GROW IN TADPOLE'S TAIL

University, Va. —(AP)—Tadpoles' tails are telling University of Virginia scientists a new story of life for nerves.

The tails are transparent. Within them living nerves are watched under the microscope by a method reported by Dr. Carl C. Spiegl of the medical school to the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

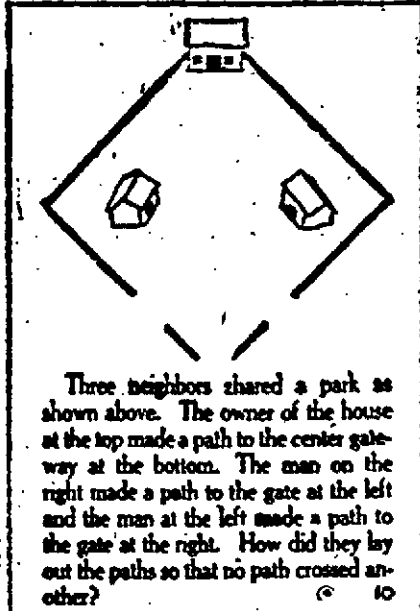

The nerves start as tiny sprouts, grow, extend and finally branch into networks. Just like plants breaking through soil, they meet obstacles. On such occasions tiny cells are seen occasionally sliding along the nerve to the point of trouble.

These first aid cells are makers of the sheath which insulates all nerves. Sometimes it almost seems that a nerve radios back home for an extra supply of sheath cells. The latter have been observed migrating along one nerve to transfer at some crossing to another nerve fiber.

Yesterday's Stickler Solved

The diagram of two circles may be drawn, without lifting the pencil from the paper, in this manner: Take a piece of paper and fold a corner in, as indicated in the diagram. Then draw the inner circle to touch the edge of the folded piece. Then draw over the folded corner of the paper until you reach the point where the outer circle is to be. Start the outer circle and, when you get back on the main paper, remove the folded corner and complete the outer circle.

GOLDEN GATE SPAN OF 9,000 FEET TO COST $35,000,000

Counties Pass Bond Issue and World's Largest Bridge to Be Started

San Francisco —(AP)—A $35,000,000 bond issue passed by northern California counties has removed the last obstacle to construction of the Golden Gate bridge, the world's longest single suspension highway span.

It will hang on two steel cables weighing 43,750,000 pounds from towers 740 feet high.

Although the Golden Gate is only slightly more than a mile wide, the bridge will stretch 3,943 feet from portal to portal.

The central span will be 4,105 feet long, and 220 feet above high water at the center, both side spans going out 1,100 feet each to the bridge-heads.

Construction will require four years and provide employment for hundreds of idle men. There will be an annual payroll of $735,000.

For the first time in bridge building a modernistic retreating type of architecture will be employed, with vertical lines to emphasize the design. Two of the towers will have glass-encased observation platforms on top, and plazas at each end.

Towers, surmounted by aerial beacons, will be built of a series of non-enclosed square steel cells "topper-off" to give a receding effect.

The observation platforms provide a panoramic view of the Pacific, San Francisco bay and the cities on its shores.

Ten-foot sidewalks, with alcove benches at intervals, will flank a 60-foot roadway with six lanes for motor traffic and two for bus service. The total width will be 90 feet.

A great circular plaza on the San Francisco side, with a terraced and landscaped encampment, will be surrounded by a portal structure, with two massive pylons at the bridge-level.

The entire structure will be coated with aluminum paint, while strings of lights will outline the full length of each cable at night. Plazas, portal structures, pylons and towers will be flood-lighted and aerial beacons will flash atop the towers.

A series of electrolifts will be placed across the bridge, while another series will extend along highways leading to and from each end. The war department has approved the plans and it is held that the structure will be no menace to navigation.

Its central span will be more than 400 feet longer than the bridge being built across the Hudson river near New York, and its cables will be

PAULINA LOSES REAL PAL IN DADDY'S DEATH

Washington —(AP)—The house lost a speaker today but Paulina Longworth mourned her "daddy." The flaxen-haired 6-year-old daughter of the speaker and granddaughter of President Roosevelt was in Cincinnati, miles from her father's bedside awaiting his coming for a promised vacation together.

Miss Paulina and Mr. Longworth were real pals. No demands warranted an interference in their plans together, and on several occasions she was a delighted observer in the house gallery or on the floor beside her proud parent.

Only recently an important visitor sought an engagement with the speaker on a certain afternoon. He had said it was impossible. "My daughter is participating in a children's play," the speaker was reported to have said. "I could not afford to miss that."

Jacksonville, Fla.—H. R. Macmillan, Jacksonville fire chief, had quite a fire of his own on his 60th birthday. It was in the form of a 10-inch cigar given him six years ago. At that time he said he'd keep the smoke until he reached his sixtieth year. The cigar was made in China.

PLAN GOLDEN JUBILEE FOR REV. LOCHMAN

Church Groups to Sponsor Celebration Early in June

Kaukauna—Plans are being considered by various organizations of the Holy Cross Catholic church for the golden jubilee celebration of the pastor, the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Peter J. Lochman, V. G., who will have been ordained into the priesthood 50 years ago next June. Although the anniversary is on June 26, it is expected that the event will be celebrated early in June before the parochial school closes for the summer.

A graduate of St. Francis Seminary at St. Francis, Rev. Lochman was ordained into the priesthood of the Roman Catholic church in Milwaukee June 26, 1881. He has been vicar-general for the Green Bay diocese for the last 27 years and has been pastor of Holy Cross church for 23 years.

In 1929 Pope Pius conferred upon him the honor of proto notary apostolic because of the long faithful service rendered to the church and his congregation. He said his first pontifical mass at Green Bay in January, 1930. The honor is seldom given to any priest and the Rev. Lochman is the only one to have it in this province, which includes Superior, LaCrosse, Green Bay, Milwaukee and Marquette.

He served numerous other parishes before coming to Kaukauna, including Clintonville, Autigo, Marinette, Menominee, Oconto and Freedom.

When the Rev. Lochman first came to the Holy Cross parish, it consisted of 250 families. The congregation has now grown to nearly 500 families. During his stay here a large, modern addition has been made to the school. A beautiful new church was erected to replace the old structure which burned, and last winter a large addition was made to the nun's home. The enrollment of the Holy Cross parochial school is nearly 500 students. The total indebtedness of the church is about $4,000.

Father Lochman succeeded the Rev. P. Rhode as pastor of Holy Cross church. He still handles all the affairs of the church and school and says mass daily. He contradicted the rumor that he was going to give up his parish after his golden jubilee, saying that at present he plans to remain active and continue in his present capacity of serving his church and parish.

Kaukauna—Ernest R. Landreman, alderman of the Third ward for 14 years and president of the council for the last three years, will give up his seat on the city council to Jacob Lummerding at the next meeting of the council on Tuesday, April 21. Lummerding defeated Landreman in the election last Tuesday.

Mr. Landreman served as alderman for 10 consecutive years. Then, after a lapse of four years, he again was elected to the office which he has held for the last four years. Three years ago he was elected president of the council. He was re-elected to the same position by the aldermen the following two years. He also was a member of the utility commission for three years.

RUSH RAZING OF LAWE-ST BRIDGE

Steel Work Is Removed from North Approach to Structure

Kaukauna—Razing of the old Lawe-st bridge is progressing rapidly according to Meyer Construction company. All the steel work has been removed from the north approach, the concrete roadway is broken up, and the fill is being hauled away in a fleet of trucks. The ground is being dumped in the rear of the municipal building. Access to this plot of ground was gained by building a small bridge over the relief creek that runs south of the building.

The draw span has been razed, the steel work being cut into pieces by acetylene torches. Thursday afternoon only a small part of the steel foundation to the draw span remained to be cut down.

Work was started Thursday afternoon on the structure that bridges the rapids. At the present rate, the entire bridge will be torn down by the end of next week. A steam shovel is digging out the fill on the north approach of the bridge. Idle groups are on the scene at all hours of the day, many of them waiting for a chance to secure work.

At the company headquarters near the Rann company on the Island the concrete mixing plant, which will soon go in operation, is being set up.

ADVISES GARDENING TO HELP JOBLESS

Unemployment Committee Discusses Plans to Find More Jobs

Kaukauna—The city unemployment committee met Thursday evening and discussed means of securing work for the jobless. It was brought out that at the present time there are many persons making gardens at their homes and in vacant lots. Many others have plots of ground good for gardening if someone would dig it for them. Anyone intending to prepare a garden, and needing help should call the Rann employment office. All unemployed men can apply at the office, and when garden work is offered, assignments will be made.

All residents are asked by the unemployment committee to cooperate with this plan, as it will temporarily relieve many men. There still are a great many men in the city without work, and this temporary employment will be welcome to them, it was pointed out.

CONDUCT LAST RITES FOR STEVE CALLAHAN

ADVISE FARMERS TO LOWER CHICK LOSSES

Bulletin Tells of Measures Which Can Be Used to Advantage

This is the year to lower chick losses, according to a bulletin received by Gus Sell, county agent, from John B. Hayes, a poultry expert with the state department of agriculture. The profit in chick rearing is determined by the number of good pullets housed in the fall, the bulletin says.

The use of a baby chick bath trough for feeding is recommended by Hayes. Copies of the plans are on file in Mr. Sell's office, where they may be obtained by Outagamie-co farmers. A farmer can usually find enough odd pieces of lumber about the farm to build a trough without great cost. All chick feeding should be done by troughs, Mr. Hayes advises.

Two rations are listed by Mr. Hayes as being proper to feed chicks. They are:

Wisconsin 2A: 45 pounds ground yellow corn, 15 pounds pure standard middlings, 15 pounds pure wheat bran, 12 pounds dried buttermilk or

Butte des Morts Golf Course Opens For 1931 Season Tomorrow

PERMIT PLAY ON FIRST 9 HOLES; GREENS IN SHAPE

Expect to Use Last Nine by June 1; Heavy Rains Would Help

LAY at Butte des Morts golf course will open Saturday noon for the 1931 season, according to announcement made by officers of the club today. Only the first nine holes will be played but permanent greens will be used.

Golf club officers yesterday kept an eye on the heavy skies in hopes they'd get rain for about 12 hours, a condition that would have put the course in almost mid-season condition. However, the skies poured forth water for only a few hours and while it helped there could have been more. Friday morning the fairways and greens looked fresh and ready for the advent of the golfers. The greens on the first nine holes will be cut Saturday morning.

Fairways on the first nine holes are in excellent condition, it is said. They have been rolled and made ready for use and because there is comparatively little moisture in the ground the usual soft and wet places of early spring are missing.

George K. Vitense again will be professional at the club although he will spend only a few days here each week until June 1 when he will return for the summer. Jack Matthews again will be assistant pro and is putting in full time at the club. Jack Taylor remains as greenskeeper.

Play over the second nine holes as far as permanent greens are concerned will not be started until next month or June 1. A few heavy rains and a couple days of warm weather would bring the greens around nicely, however, and might permit their use earlier than planned, course officials have indicated.

Clarence Currie will again be caddy master and Mrs. Helen Roate will have charge of the club house and club restaurant. They will begin work next month.

RIVERVIEW OPENS
Play over Riverview course also will be permitted members Saturday and Sunday. Temporary greens and tees will be used, however, because of work being done on the permanent greens and tees. Tour dressing has been placed on the greens committee, and they will not be ready for use until next week.

Clarence Currie is professional at the club and will spend full time at the course.

N. E. W. LEAGUERS ARE MEETING AT HILBERT

Managers, Officers of Loop to Vote on Plymouth's Application

Hilbert—The first meeting of the Northeastern Wisconsin league will be held at Hilbert Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Opening game plans and schedules will be the important points taken up. Another question for discussion will be whether the league will consist of seven or eight clubs. Plymouth has asked to play in this league and will be voted upon by the managers. Each team will be represented by the manager and one director giving each team two votes.

From present indications each team's roster is practically the same as last year. Several teams have signed new pitchers, outside of that few changes will be made.

Hilbert base ball club has not made any definite selections although several men have inquired about playing here. Jensen and Hackforth of Oshkosh have written and it is suitable arrangements can be made they will appear in local uniforms again this season.

IRISH GRID TEAMS RESUME SPRING DRILLS

It had been suggested that spring football practice be dropped, but Mrs. Rockne and school officials decided the dead leader would have wanted it to be resumed and a call issued for candidates to report today. The drills will continue until the end of this month, and will be voluntary.

The problem of selecting a successor to Rockne is still being pondered by officials of the university and an announcement by the Rev. Fr. Michael M. Mulcaire, C. S. C., chairman of the athletic board of control, is expected next week.

WELTERWEIGHT CROWN MAY HAVE NEW WEARER
Detroit—(AP)—Jack (Kid) Berg's junior welterweight title will be at stake tonight when he meets Billy Wallace of Cleveland, veteran of 125 ring encounters, in a ten round bout at Olympia Stadium.

Wallace has scored knock-outs in 80 of his fights, which gives him a margin of ring experience over the prize of Great Britain.

Berg, however, has demonstrated a punishing offense and an ability to take it on defense which has enabled him to defeat the best this country has to offer within the 130-140 pound limits. Both were expected to weigh in at close to 140 pounds.

Stockton, Calif.—Bobby Vincent, Tulsa, Okla., stopped Joey Roberts, San Francisco (5).

Denver, Colo.—George Manley, Denver, outpointed Charley Belan, Winnipeg (10).

Alex Will Grow One Too

Grover Cleveland Alexander, former National League pitching hero, who seldom needed more than a haircut and shave to get in trim for a baseball campaign, doesn't need even that now. He has signed to pitch for the House of David semipro nine. This photo, taken at Mineral Springs, Tex., the spring training base of the House of David team, shows Old Alex and Dave Harrison, star third baseman of the cult, discussing the new baseball.

Chaff'n Chatter

By Gordon H. McIntyre

The Last Tribute

A great many words have been written about Knute Rockne since his death. His life has been reviewed his "system" carefully gone over and his wisecracks re-rehearsed. Thousands of sympathetic columns about the dear, dead coach have been written around the world.

Yet there is time perhaps for one last tribute. It concerns Rockne as a human being, Rockne retaining to the last the "common touch." He remained "Rock" to his friends and to the students and graduates of Notre Dame no matter what the circumstance or demand of his life or theirs happened to be.

Fame came to him in measure sufficient to turn the head of any man. Did it turn "Rock's"? The world knows it didn't, and that is why the world understood and loved him.

He Stood Alone

He won more renown than any other man of his calling ever achieved. His teams played before single crowds of more than 125,000 people. Publicity was heaped upon him, his "psychology" was praised to the skies by sports writing enthusiasts, his every movement or word during the football season was made the subject of a story.

Through it all, his heart remained right.

Can any finer thing be said of him?

Praiseful Paean

Last year when his Rainbirds rose to heights unexpected even of a Rockne team, beating the University of Southern California 27 to 0, the pudgy bald man was the toast of America. Hero-worshipping imaginations placed him on a pedestal. He was popularly pictured as though he might have been one of the old Norse gods, the very acme of football wisdom, an unfailing, all-knowing guide to his team, the master strategist.

He was glad as he sat there on the bench in the streaming sunshine, his hat twisted to one side, clenching and unclenching a folded newspaper in fingers that excited men had unnerved. When that game ended and a tremendous shout of tribute went up from myriads of husky throats, Rockne rejoiced. But only for a brief instant did he tarry to bask in the bright glow of adulation.

Looks to His "Men"

As swiftly as he could go, he hurried to the dressing room of his "men," as he called them—and they were "men" that day—and moved about among the bruised and injured, bestowing all the care a man might bestow, murmuring with Alonzo Mullins, Bert Metzger, Tom Kassels and others who had been hurt, and advising the team trainers how to handle the injuries.

There was loyalty. With the football world outside singing his name, marveling at his strategy and "psychology," waiting to get a glimpse of him or shake his hand, here was "Old Rock," bending over a torn knee, seeing to it personally that a strained back was properly taped and treated.

Rockne was great. But what seems to me a higher tribute than all was the fact that his heart was always right. It never changed.

HOMANS ELIMINATED FROM AMATEUR MEET

Pinehurst, N. C.—(AP)—The thirty-first North and South amateur golf tournament today moved into the semi final round with Eugene Homans, the 1930 champion, a looker-on.

The Englewood N. J., star fell yesterday before the consistent shooting of T. Sufferin Tallier, Newport, R. I., linksman. Tallier had the defending champion one down at the turn and on the fourteenth hole laid him a stytle to win the match, five and four.

George T. Dunlap, Jr., of New York, the medalist, whose machine-like stroking has made him a sensation in the tournament, continued his march by defeating Howard Tryon, Elmira, N. Y., 7 and 5.

Training Camp Notes

PHILADELPHIA—(AP)—Now that Al Simmons, leading batsman of the American league, has signed his contract and pitcher George Earnshaw has reported to the club apparently in good physical condition, the champion Philadelphia Athletics were ready with a full roster today for the opening of the 1931 campaign next week.

Both Simmons, who was not considered by Manager Connie Mack as a holdout, and Earnshaw, about whom reports of illness had been circulated, worked out with the team yesterday at Shibe park. Both looked to be in good trim. They did not go south with the team for spring practice, but spent seven at Hot Springs, Ark., where they played with the Minneapolis club of the American association.

Neither Simmons nor Manager Mack would reveal the salary that the signing outfielder will draw or the length of the contract. One report said the agreement was for one year at $30,000; another that it was for three years at $100,000. "My arrangements with Mr. Mack were highly satisfactory," Simmons said, "and I have nothing on my mind now except to start Tuesday in Washington hitting the ball."

Ashville, N. C.—(AP)—One fan down here doesn't think much of Owens who is umpiring games for the New York Yankees on the spring training tour. "That fellow takes all the fun out of the game," said the fan, referring to Owens. "He's so good you can't make fun of him, or cuss at him, or throw anything at him."

Washington—(AP)—The Senators have about decided to send Ad Liska to Youngstown for treatments to his sore arm. The subway ball hurler continues to feel uncomfortable when he throws. He thinks his present difficulty might be similar to that he had in 1927, when a physician removed the soreness by snapping a back muscle into place.

Kansas City—(AP)—Lester Bell's batting power is still battling against Bill Jurgens' speed and throwing arm for a regular job in the Chicago Cub infield. Bell ranks as the most persistent hit-getter on the club, but his weak right arm and comparative lack of speed, as well as his lack of question in the minds of Manager Rogers Hornsby as to which will be a regular when the National league season gets under way. If Bell is benched, Woody English will go to third, and Jurgens will play shortstop.

Greenville, N. C.—(AP)—Manager Donie Bush, scrappy manager of the Chicago White Sox, has reached the peak of his form—he has been chased off the field by an umpire. Bush, a mild fellow off the ball field, is anything else but while in uniform, causing him to be ordered from the scene of action quite frequently. Yesterday against the New York Giants, he became so outspoken over a decision by Umpire Charlie Moran that the latter shooed him to the bench.

Cincinnati, O.—(AP)—Eddie Roush, star center fielder for the Cincinnati Reds for ten years, was back on the field where he earned his fame today, working out in a Rhineland uniform and glad to be "back home." The 38-year old gardener said he felt fine, was having no trouble with his legs, and expected to be in center field Tuesday for the opener if Manager Howley wants him.

Reinstatement Of Carnera Will Bring A Boxing War

BY WILBUR WOOD Copyright 1931

NEW YORK—(CPA)—The stock market, already groaning under an accumulation of ills, is faced with another affliction during the coming summer. The portents point to what is loosely defined as a boxing war, with the Madison Square Garden corporation on one side and the state athletic commission on the other. The role of bone of contention will be played, if there is a war, by the hulking figure of Primo Carnera.

The state athletic state that Carnera, suspended not quite a year ago for "irregularities in connection with his bout with Maurice (Bom-bo) Chevalier in Oakland, Calif., shortly will be restored to good standing. That is as far as the official statement goes.

Unofficially, it may be stated positively that Carnera is being reinstated so that he may box Jack Sharkey, the commission's little Rollo, at Ebbets Field, June 10, in a match, which will be recognized by the board as involving the heavy-weight championship. Half of the proceeds of this affair are to be whacked up among 15 charities, not including the mill fund, to be named by the commission.

The Madison Square Garden corporation of Illinois, subsidiary of the New York corporation, has Carnera signed to a contract specifying he will not box any one without its permission until he has met the winner of the Schmeling-Stribling fight for the title.

Where the trouble comes in is that the Garden intends, or says it intends to go to court, if necessary, to prevent Carnera from boxing any one in New York for another promoter, James J. Johnston. Ebbets field impresario, with the commission backing him up, expects to disregard the Garden contract and use Carnera against Sharkey. It may be stated that if Leon See, Carnera's manager of record, declines to sign for the Sharkey brawl, Carnera will be permitted by the board to sign for himself.

That is the lineup. Unless somebody backs down a costly and far-reaching conflict is bound to result.

HELENE MADISON SEEKS ANOTHER SWIM RECORD

Cleveland—(AP)—Seventeen year-old Helene Madison, who holds 15 American women's swimming records, won't be satisfied until she has some more. Tonight she'll try for No. 10 in the Cleveland athletic club pool when she seeks to better the time of 7:59 made by Martha Norclius in the 600-yard free style.

The Seattle swimmer established her fifteen record at Toledo last night when she swam the 550 yard free style in 3:02, 2-5 seconds better than the former record held by Josephine McKim of the Los Angeles Athletic club.

Others appearing tonight will include Georgia Coleman, national diving champion; Ruth Fauntz, Illinois diving titlist; Evelyn Kennedy, Illinois free style champion; and Dawn Gilson, 17-year-old backstroke sensation of the Washington athletic club.

Charlotte, N. C.—(AP)—The boys have begun to talk about who will pitch the opening game for the New York Giants and in the conversation the names of Clarence Mitchell and Fred Fitzsimmons crop up frequently. While many Giant pitchers are only in fair condition, these two have come right along.

Mitchell has been quietly getting into good shape, which often is good enough to beat any National league team, while Fitz was able to hurl ten innings against the White Sox yesterday, making him the first Giant pitcher to go an extra frame.

Macon, Ga.—(AP)—After watching Earl Mattingly whip the Brooklyn Robins twice, Wilbert Robinson has decided the rookie right hander deserves another chance to stick in the big leagues.

Robinson, who released Mattingly to the Hartford farm some time ago, has completed an arrangement by which the rookie comes back to the Robins. Hartford gets pitcher Buck Green in Mattingly's place.

THOMPSON AND EBEL SHOW AT FOND DU LAC

Zep Taurig, Art West Also on Dauber Jaeger's Card April 17

Matchmaker Dauber Jaeger at Fond du Lac seems to be stealing the thunder on Appleton promoters, or something like that, for he has signed Herbie Thompson and Adolf Ebel as the headliners on a card to be staged at Fond du Lac Friday, April 17. The two boys fought here last month and put on a real brawl.

The return bout should be an interesting fight in any man's ring for Herbie lost the decision in four rounds and was certain that he should have had an edge at the end of three.

Zep Taurig, Manitowoc, also has been placed on Dauber's next card and will fight the semi with Max Manker of Milwaukee his opponent. Another fighter who is a favorite in the local ring is Art West, Appleton, and he too has been signed for the Friday card. But draws Art Immel, a hard hitting youngster whom he fought several months ago at Fond du Lac.

VOLLEYBALL TEAM PLAYS AT OSHKOSH

SHIELDS AND WOOD PICKED AS MEMBERS OF DAVIS CUP TEAM

American Squad Will Open
First Round on May 1
With Mexicans

NEW YORK—(AP)—The United States Lawn Tennis association has turned to the rising generation in its campaign to regain the Davis cup, held since 1927 by France's musketeers of the racquet. Twenty-year-old Francis X. Shields of New York and 19-year-old Sidney B. Wood of the University of Arizona, definitely have been selected to represent this country in the first round cup tie with Mexico and also for the second round series with Canada, granting that Mexico is defeated.

Against Mexico, the two youngsters will have the aid of the youthful "veteran," Wilmer Allison of Austin, Texas, a member of several recent American Davis cup teams. Their companions in the battle with Canada will be selected later.

The Mexican series will be played at Mexico City May 1, 3 and 5, with the singles matches the first day, the doubles on the 3rd and the final two singles matches on May 5. If victorious, the Americans then will move to Montreal to meet Canada May 21, 22 and 23.

Neither Shields nor Wood has played Davis cup tennis but both played brilliantly in American tournaments last summer. Shields, who is ranked nationally at No. 2, just behind the national champion, John Doe, recently defeated both Jean Borotra and Christian Bousquet in the indoor international team matches against France. Wood, who is ranked No. 4 just behind the 26-year-old Allison, already has gained recognition as one of the foremost strategists in the game.

Boys Go To New Orleans, Back In 5 Days On $1.50 Bet

New Orleans and back in five days to win a bet of $1.50, and all the way in a six-year-old touring car, was the accomplishment of three Appleton boys, Kenneth Kloeck, son of Dr. W. J. Kloeck, William Foote, son of the late Lucy Buckland Reeve. The three boys, who are freshmen at Lawrence college, left Appleton at 3 o'clock last Thursday afternoon and arrived in New Orleans about 7 o'clock Saturday evening, covering the distance of 1,550 miles in 52 hours.

By 1 o'clock Friday morning the boys reached Joliet, Ill., and decided to stop for a little rest. Two slept in the car and the third tried a bench in the railroad station and was unceremoniously "bounced" before he was comfortably settled, but a kind hearted night clerk in the hotel across the street allowed him to sleep on a davenport until 5 o'clock.

Shortly after 5 o'clock Friday morning the battered black car left Joliet and traveled continuously, with the exception of three stops to repair blow-outs, until New Orleans was reached.

Found Bad Roads
"In Kentucky we hit some bad roads," Kloeck said. "The man at a filling station told us the roads were a little slippery and we found mud nine inches deep! It took nearly an hour to traverse one stretch of about a mile and a half, but maybe that was because we stopped to throw mud at the jackrabbits. They were so tame that they came right up to the car and Johnny almost hit one with the crank."

The kindly gas man also advised the boys to stay with the car if they got stuck in any of the country roads and not to approach any back-woods shacks because the mountaineers might mistake them for revenue agents.

By the time the boys reached Louisiana they were positive that they would win the bet, and just to prove to folks at home that they had reached the delta city they picked a grape fruit from a road side orchard and also brought home a sign reading "New Orleans, 5 miles."

When the boys reached the historic city they decided "to stop traveling and go places." They crossed the Mississippi on a ferry boat but returned immediately to look for the famous French section. On the dock they met a kindly Englishman who drove them through the French quarter and treated them to a cup of coffee at the French Market Coffee stand, the original coffee stand of New Orleans and more than 30 years old.

Visit Large Estate
Next their self-selected guide took them to the show-place of southern Louisiana, a huge estate on the edge of the city. In the garden, which contained many rare semi-tropical plants, they saw a row of 14 very rare Camellia Japonica trees, which cost their owner more than $1,000 apiece. The owner of the garden charges visitors 25 cents each to see the garden and turns the fund over to unemployment work. Last month more than 4,000 tourists and citizens of New Orleans visited the garden.

After seeing the estate they returned to the city past the burying wall. The ground in Louisiana is unfit to bury the dead because water is generally struck a few feet below the surface, so spaces are rented in this huge wall which is really a long vault, and unless the rent is paid promptly at the end of the first year theasket is removed and relatives are forced to dispose of it.

Saturday night was the only time the boys slept in a bed on the whole trip. Two of them rented a room in a New Orleans hotel and the third member of the trio was smuggled up the servant's elevator. Sunday morning they got up early and went to Easter services and then out to look for breakfast. "We bought poor-boy sandwiches for a dime and got two meals from each sandwich," they said. Charity organizations sell these sandwiches, which consist of a loaf of bread split lengthwise and a slice of beef, pork or ham inserted, for the benefit of the poor and unemployed of the city.

Muffler Drops Off
At 10 o'clock Easter morning they left New Orleans and started east along the Gulf of Mexico towards the Atlantic ocean. Cutting across the northwest corner of Florida into Alabama, they lost the muffler on a stretch of bumpy road.

"We were stopped twice in Kentucky and once in Milwaukee for driving with the muffler open, but when we told them we were college boys trying to get back to school, and that the car didn't have a muffler, the police let us go," they explained. The southern dialect was very confusing to the northern boys and afforded them much amusement.

"At one place in Alabama," Bill Foote said, "I asked a farmer for a tire pump and at first he couldn't understand me, and when he discovered what I wanted he asked me to help him unload his truck and then I couldn't travel him!"

The boys traveled north through Birmingham, Ala., Nashville, Tenn., and on through Frankfort, Ky., to Indianapolis, Chicago, Milwaukee and Appleton, reaching the Beta Sigma Phi house at 3 o'clock Wednesday morning. The boys were gone 132 hours, traveling a distance of 2,700 miles through nine states in 111 hours of driving time, and they're willing to show their hand-picked grape fruit or road signs to anyone who doubts their word.

WISCONSIN ASKS MANY CHANGES IN U. S. CONSTITUTION

Eighteen Joint Resolutions
Propose Changes in National Laws

Madison—(AP)—Wisconsin is not wholly in accord with its constitution as evidenced by the number of proposals for constitutional amendments pending in the legislature.

Eighteen joint resolutions proposing changes in the constitution are before the present session, some of which provide drastic departure from existing laws. Four have already been approved by the 1929 legislature and if ratified this year will be placed before the people at a referendum in November, 1932. Passage in the referendum automatically renders the amendments effective.

The four amendments awaiting ratification include three by Sen. Thomas M. Duncan, Milwaukee, providing for increases in the salaries of governor and lieutenant-governor and correction of the term "house of representatives" to "assembly," and the Loomis resolution providing that bonded indebtedness for the acquisition of publicly-owned utilities may exceed the present limit of five per cent of a municipality's assessed valuation.

The latter measure and another resolution by Sen. O. S. Loomis to permit the state to go into the power and light utility business have duplicates in the assembly by Moulton E. Gott and J. W. Carow.

Sen. Duncan has another resolution pending which would abolish the office of state superintendent of public instruction and permit the legislature to create a central state board of education.

Other joint resolutions to amend the constitution are:

Assemblyman Charles A. Budlong, to permit state bonding up to $5,000,000 for construction of state charitable and penal institutions; Assemblyman J. W. Grobbschmidt, to elect justices for full terms only under present provisions and permit election of not more than three justices in any one year.

Assemblyman Robert A. Nixon, a change to provide for the initiative and referendum; Assemblyman Hugh A. Harner, to permit taxing for school purposes of farm land at lower than average rates; Assemblyman P. F. Wenz, to wipe out the two legislative houses and make the legislature of 133 members elective for four year terms after 1942.

By Assemblyman John W. Gamper, to correct the constitution to conform with the federal woman suffrage amendment; Assemblyman George Hampel, to permit the legislature to consolidate city and county governments in counties of more than 500,000 population; Assemblyman John Eber, to permit the peo-

MATCH TAXES START INTERNATIONAL "FIRE"

Calco—(AP)—Egypt's burning question of the hour concerns matches. It is through taxes on the lowly safety match, generally given away in America, that Egypt seeks to overcome its budget deficiencies.

It is estimated that the revenue produced under the proposal would approximate $500,000 but countries whose nationals' business profits are threatened have lodged protests.

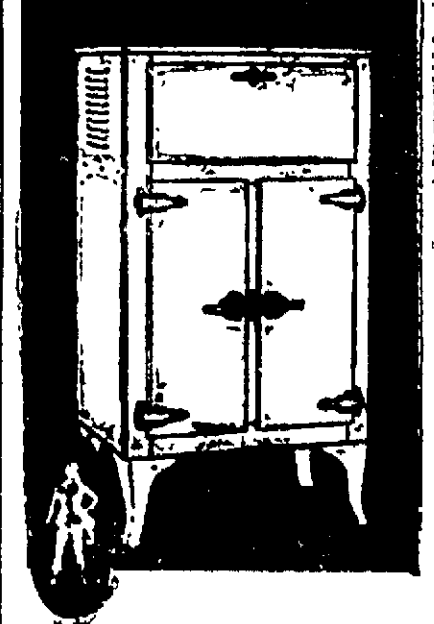

Largely because of the Swedish Match Trusts' position in a number of European countries, under which the government is loaned money in exchange for a monopoly, "free matches" as Americans understand the term, are unknown.

BLACKHAWKS WIN THIRD HOCKEY GAME

Chicago Sextet Has Edge in Battles for Historic Stanley
Cup

Montreal—(AP)—The prediction of Bill Tobin, manager of the Chicago Blackhawks, that a finish fight Saturday will see the final decision in the battle for hockey's historic championship trophy, the Stanley cup, seems to have been justified.

Tobin's team is out ahead today, leading the Montreal Canadiens two games to one after one of the greatest battles ever seen in the Stanley cup finals last night. And the chances appear more than even that they can win their third game in the series of five.

After being down two goals to their experienced rivals last night, the young Hawks pulled up to even terms with a belated rush then won out by a 3 to 2 score after nearly an hour of overtime play. The game was close to the playoff record for duration of overtime when Cy Wentworth, veteran defenseman, sank the winning goal 53 minutes and 50 seconds after the start of the extra sessions. Last year the Canadiens and New York Rangers played over 58 minutes of overtime in a preliminary round game.

Sports Question Box

Question—Team at bat and one man on first base. There was one out. The next batter had a count of three and two on him. The next pitcher was called on the ground and throwing his glove on the ground and disgust at the decision. Pitcher and catcher of defensive team protested to the umpire. The runner who had moved up to second tried to take advantage of the argument and ran for third. He was thrown out trying to slide into the bag. Field umpire called him out. Team at bat argued with the umpire-in-chief that the runner going to third was entitled to the base because the pitcher had thrown his glove on the ground. Thereupon the umpire-in-chief overruled the field umpire.

Answer—The umpire-in-chief had no right whatever to change the decision of the other umpire.

Question—Has there been any Filipino fighters to class with Pancho Villa?

Answer—No. Villa was the last of great Filipino fighters. The best since his time was Lope Torero who threatened to make his mark among the lightweights.

Question—Has any batter in organized baseball ever made as many home runs as Ruth?

Answer—No.

CHICAGO WOULD ERECT MEMORIAL TO ROCKNE

Chicago—(AP)—A memorial to Knute Rockne, to be situated near Soldier field, scene of some of his greatest gridiron triumphs, is being planned.

Mayor Anton J. Cermak today said he would appoint a committee to arrange for handling subscriptions, which will be limited to 25 cents an individual, and that an appeal would be made to the South Park board, which operates Soldier field for a site on which to set up the memorial.

WISCONSIN CREW WILL COMPETE AT 'KEEPSIE REGATTA'

LOMBARDO GETS NOD OVER BOBBY CALMES

Johnny Lombardo, Milwaukee, 134, won an eight round referee decision over Bobby Calmes, Oklahoma City, in the wind-up of a boxing card at Oshkosh last night. Jack Davies, Chicago, 134, took the decision from Eddie Black, Milwaukee, in the eight round semi-windup.

DOLE DRAWS DANES HOME FROM CANADA

Copenhagen—(AP)—Unemployment doles and other improved social conditions in Denmark have brought many Danes back from the United States and Canada in the last few months.

There also has been a decided decrease in the number of emigrants, 1930 having witnessed only 2,348 departures, the lowest figure, except for world war years, since 1890.

For several years Canada has been first choice for the largest group of Danish emigrants but the United States supplanted its northern neighbors in 1930.

Chapter 34 THE WARDEN'S CALLER

I DASHED to the door and slammed it behind me, marched whistling to the prison-gate.

"Come on, Bo!" growled the outer guard, standing by the open inner gate. "Thought you was never coming."

I came on merrily, and, as a puzzled frown gathered on the face of the guard, I once more cleared up the situation with dispatch.

"Lamb-like he marched before me to the Port, and was quickly locked into that silent room."

I rushed back to the office, and found the bookkeeper still unconscious, and was greatly relieved to discover that his heart was still beating.

It was a most distasteful task to bind his hands behind him with his own suspenders and to gag him with his coat-sleeves.

When I stepped out of that office and locked the door behind me, I was in complete charge of that State Prison; whereas, a moment later, the gates stood wide open. All I had to do, to be free, was to walk out of the prison, proceed to the prison-gate, and, in the Warden's own car, depart in peace—obviously a warden going about his lawful occasions in the prison-car.

But even one additional hour before the news was broadcast might make a difference between successful escape and a burst for freedom, inglorious and ineffective.

Thus thinking, I hurried across to the "Administration-block," and set about smashing the telephones and telegraphic instruments, and cutting every wire that entered the administration building.

This work I bethought me that, ere borrowing his car, I might put the Warden where he would do least harm for the longest time.

If I made off at once, leaving him peacefully slumbering, he would arise and stroll over to the prison at about nine o'clock—and the hunt would be up.

If, however, I put him "under restraint," not only would the discovery be postponed, but, when it did arrive, the absence of the Warden would inevitably increase the confusion.

Straight from the "Administration-block" I hurried, passed through the wire-roped gateways, and walked boldly up to the front door of the lonely house, close by, where, alone with his elderly Irish housekeeper, dwelt Warden O'Shaughnessy.

How to get into the house? I had not stopped to think of the bolted doors, nor of fastened windows. How was I to place the Warden under arrest, if I couldn't get to him?

Another bright thought. Promptly I rang the front-door bell, and then flung a handful of gravel at the bedroom window.

I will say the Warden was prompt, and distinctly peevish. "What in hell..." he began, ere he had well thrown up the window. "Quick, Warden!" I interrupted. "You're wanted across at the prison..."

"What's up, then?" roared the Warden.

"Don't rightly know, Sir," I replied, "but I was towed to run like the divvie."

"I'll be there..." snapped the Warden, and, as, clad in a long overcoat and pajamas, he stepped out into the darkness, he felt the prod of an automatic.

"Up with them, quick!" I snapped. "And step back into the house."

Back went the Warden, his hands above his head and a look of consternation on his face.

"Do exactly what I tell you—and make it snappy—for I can shoot you here and now, and make my getaway."

"Sure thing," drawled the Warden. "Who are...?"

"Don't talk. Who's in this house except you?"

"An old dame," replied the Warden. "She won't do a thing to you."

"March to her room and lock her in."

With my pistol touching his back, the Warden preceded me up the house, took the key from the stairs, opened a door at the back of lock, closed and locked the door, and offered me the key.

"Pocket it, quick," I ordered, "and then raise your hands..."

"Walk in front of me to where the garage key is; then to the garage, and unlock it."

The Warden hung back in doubt for the fraction of a minute, glancing at the pistol leveled at his stomach. I raised another and pointed it at his face.

"Jump to it, Warden," I said. "You can die if you want to—but I'd like to spare your life."

He promptly turned about, and led the way downstairs and out of the house to the garage.

"Have you got the key?" I asked.

"No."

"Get it then, quick."

"There isn't one."

I laughed, even as I realized with some chagrin that I could have come straight to the garage and taken the car without this waste of precious minutes.

But then again, I reflected, it was well worth the lost time, to have the warden safely under lock and key, and so to postpone the hour of discovery and pursuit in the morning.

The Warden threw open the garage door.

"Fill the petrol tank and start the engine," I ordered, standing well away from the Warden and covering him with a pistol.

Satisfied that the tank was full, the engine running, and the car in readiness, I bade the Warden march ahead of me into the prison.

A minute later the Warden was locked inside one of the strongest cells in the prison, and I was on my way to the prison gates, with a most useful collection of the prison keys. There was a better scheme than locking him with the rest. The longer it took to find the Warden, the longer it would be before pursuit was organized.

As I passed through the prison gates it occurred to me that, if I chose to do so, I could release every single convict in that jail.

I put the thought from me, however, realizing that it would be a wicked thing to turn loose hundreds of desperate criminals with no money and no clothing other than their convict garb—save what they could procure by robbery and murder.

I thought of Rosemary, and my heart hardened to stone. Had any one of that gang been in the prison I would have shot him, in cold blood, and called that killing no murder, but an execution.

And then I thought of two convicts, neither of whom was any more a real criminal than was I myself—the boy called Kid Males and old Snipe Freen. I would give them their freedom.

I dashed back and unlocked the door of old Snipe's cell.

As soon as the old chap's bearded mind grasped the idea, he thanked me, with tears in his eyes.

"No, son," he said. "I'm tired. I wouldn't have a hope to keep straight, for the bulls wouldn't let me.... No, God bless ye, son, and thank ye from the bottom of my heart, but go while the going's good."

And he led me in again for a moment, or they think I'm, it and beat me up."

The old chap wrung my hand as though he would crush it.

Males was off his plank bed and into his clothes almost before my first sentence was completed.

"I'm with ye, Bo. Give me a gal and we'll shoot our way out."

"I'll do all the shooting, that's to be done," I said, "and that's none of your business."

"There's a boiler-unt, or overalls, or something of the sort, on the wall of the Warden's garage, so you'll have that much disguise."

"The Warden's garage," ejaculated the boy, as I locked the door of his cell behind us.

"Yes," I said, "we're going for a joy-ride in his car."

And in speechless amazement he followed me as I ran towards the prison gates.

ADULT FARM SCHOOL IN BOVINA TOWN IS BROUGHT TO CLOSE

Eleven Weekly Meetings
Conducted Under Direction of W. D. Brownson

Shilceton—The Countryside Farm school came to a close recently after a talk by County Agent Gus Sell. This marked the close of the first adult farm school to be held in the county. Eleven meetings were held beginning Jan. 22, and each Tuesday night thereafter in the Countryside school house in Bovina. The average attendance was 25 persons. The women discussed the problems of Poultry Management and Chick Raising, and men Soil Management and Fertilizing. The meetings were under the direction of W. D. Brownson vocational agriculture teacher at Shilceton high school.

Stress was laid upon efficient use of the materials at hand in the management of soils, before resort to commercial fertilizers. The problem of conserving the value of the barnyard fertilizer and methods of handling the manure to get more efficient results were considered in detail.

Use of nitrifying crops such as alfalfa, sweet clover and soybeans was thoroughly discussed and practices that insured greater success with these crops suggested.

Various sources of raw materials for commercial fertilizers were considered; during an evening spent upon finding what the commercial fertilizer analysis told. Another evening was spent on the problems of home raising fertilizer formulas and rules for making mixtures commonly used in this territory.

Soil Test Demonstration
Soil testing demonstrations were held at one of the meetings, and as follow up work the instructor is visiting the several farmers and testing the fields for available phosphorus and acidity. To date thirty-five samples of soil have been tested, and more requests are waiting. As a result of the soils test, one farmer has changed his planting plans by changing the fields on which he had been planning to sow sweet clover to alfalfa, and put the sweet clover where he had planned alfalfa, because the field with the higher phosphate content being better fitted to get a good catch of alfalfa.

In the women's section the problem of soil sanitation in poultry raising covered.

Feeding of baby chicks and the laying flock received much attention. Suggested feeding rations and systems were distributed to the members so that each might use one that fitted their requirements.

At the close of the series of meetings several of the members requested that another series of farm meetings be started this coming fall, and to run through the winter months.

GIRLS TO GET AWARDS FOR SPORTS ABILITY

NUMBER OF LIBRARY PATRONS INCREASES

84 More Borrowers in March Than Previous Month, Report Shows

An increase of 84 borrowers during March was reported by Miss Florence Day, librarian, at the monthly meeting of the Appleton public library board Tuesday afternoon. New books added during the month numbered 162.

With the addition of 284 new borrowers, and the cancellation of 206 registrations, the 10,873 borrowers at the beginning of the month was increased to 10,952 by March 31. New books added to the library numbered 162, and 115 were withdrawn, making the total of volumes on the library shelves at the end of the month 34,331.

There were 15,070 fiction books, 5,422 non-fiction volumes, 251 unbound periodicals and 163 foreign books circulated during the month, a total of 20,908. Fourteen books were received as gifts, and 934 pictures and 57 clippings were loaned.

The librarian reported the time saving effected by the purchase of the new sortergat, listed the book exhibits held during the month, and announced that transoms would be installed on the north side of the adult reading room.

PORTUGAL TEACHES USE OF TRACTORS

Lisbon—(AP)—Taking a leaf from the soviet book, Portugal is teaching her peasant farmers to use tractors.

Increased use of the machines is credited with the size of the 1930 wheat crop which broke all records. It exceeded the 1929 yield by 3,376,000 bushels.

During a recent "national agriculture week," 865 open air meetings were held. The government campaigners who urged intensification of grain culture included President Carmona, the minister of agriculture and a number of other persons.

ed that another series of farm meetings be started this coming fall, and to run through the winter months.
